

Red China Rejects U. N. Bid For Cease-Fire Talks

Chou Sets Price Too Costly For U. N. To Accept

TOKYO, Friday, Feb. 4 (P) — Red China today rejected the United Nations' invitation to participate in talks on a cease-fire for the Formosa Strait.

Premier Chou En-lai informed the U. N. he will not send a spokesman to New York unless Nationalist China is ousted from the U. N. Security Council. And in any case, Chou said, he would send a representative only to discuss Soviet charges that the United States is guilty of aggression against China.

Votes in the U. N. have shown it is not prepared to pay such a price for Red China's participation in discussions. Only last Monday the Security Council overwhelmingly voted down a Soviet demand that Chiang Kai-shek's ambassador be excluded from the Formosan debate.

Two questions are before the council:

1. A New Zealand proposal that the U. N. seek to end hostilities on certain islands off the Chinese mainland. This refers to the Tachens and other islands in Formosa Strait, but not to Formosa itself.

2. A Soviet proposal which charges the United States with aggression against China and calls for withdrawal of all U. S. forces from the China area.

The Council has agreed to give priority to New Zealand's proposal, but the Western powers still have not put forward a formal resolution for a cease-fire.

In his message today Chou contended that the Council's decision to consider the New Zealand move was "intervention in China's internal affairs" that is no concern of the U. N. He stressed that his government would have no part in such discussions and would regard any U. N. action on this subject as "illegal and null and void."

(At U. N. headquarters, the news of Chou's stand was received with disappointment. Many delegates had hoped that the Peiping regime would send a representative in view of the Council's agreement to take up the Soviet charges of aggression after cease-fire talks are concluded. An influential delegate said the members would want time to reflect and also to consult their governments.)

Chou's decision, broadcast by Peiping radio, was in reply to an invitation sent by Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld Monday on instructions from the Security Council. Under the invitation, the Chinese Communist representative would have been permitted to take part in the Council discussions but would not have had a vote. Once before, in 1950, Red China sent a representative to the U. N. for debate on alleged U. S. aggression against China, but the Council threw out the charges.

Red China Seems To Have Invited Intervention By Third-Party, Perhaps India

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Feb. 3 (P) — Red China's Chou En-lai appears to have made a bid to Prime Minister Nehru or some other third party to intervene and organize a conference outside the U. N. on the Formosan question.

That was the consensus of key delegates today after Chou rejected an invitation to send a representative to debate in the Security Council on a Formosan cease-fire.

They based their reactions on versions broadcast by Peiping radio and issued by news agencies in early afternoon.

U. S. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld, who had relayed the Council's invitation to Chou, received his official reply by commercial radio some four hours later, at about 6 p.m. EST. It was identical with the agencies' versions. Aides said it would be circulated to the 11 Council members tonight.

Sir Leslie Knox Munro of New Zealand, sponsor of the Council's Formosa item and council president last month, was the first delegate to comment publicly. His statement said:

"I deeply regret the negative reply given by Mr. Chou En-lai to the very moderate and reasonable proposal of the New Zealand government. Naturally, I am engaged in the matter in further consultation with my government."

The disappointed delegates, speaking anonymously, pointed out that Nehru apparently already is at work on some such project as an outside-the-U. N. conference. They said his most likely move would be to try to convene a meeting of the United States, Britain, France, the Soviet Union and Communist China.

Matusow Admits False Documents

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (P) — Communist Harvey Matusow said today he campaigned against several Western Democratic senators in 1952 using what he described as "false documents and materials" he said were supplied by the office of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Matusow, who has sworn he did in helping convict 13 second rank Communist leaders, was asked how reporters could tell whether he was now telling the truth.

Draft Extension Measure Approved By House Group

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (P) — A bill extending the draft law for four more years after June 30 was approved 32-0 today by the House Armed Services Committee.

Pentagon officials estimate that if Congress passes the bill 674,000 young men between the ages of 18½ and 26 will be tapped for two years of military service during the extension period. They will also be required to spend six years in the reserve.

Two changes in the Selective Service system were approved by the committee after hearings lasting two days.

One would exempt from the draft any man joining the National Guard before he is 18½ and remaining in it until he is 26.

The other would provide that

U. S. Prods Chiang On Evacuation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (P) — The United States is reported urging Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to make a quick final decision on evacuation of his troops from the Tachen Islands since the reinforced 7th Fleet cannot be held in a state of readiness indefinitely.

Diplomatic sources said today the Chinese Nationalist leader is hailing at making this decision until he gets a firm American guarantee for the defense of Quemoy and Matsu, coastal islands. He is understood to have taken the position that the morale of Nationalist forces could be severely damaged if the Tachens were abandoned without any offsetting guarantee for Quemoy and the Matsus.

President Eisenhower, on the other hand, is said to have made clear to Chiang through diplomatic contacts that the United States does not intend to make any ironclad, public guarantee to defend Quemoy and the Matsus. Thus a deadlock has arisen.

The Tachens are 200 miles north of Formosa and Eisenhower has decided that they should be evacuated since they are not essential to Formosa's defense. But the troops and the decision are Chiang's.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Feb. 3 (P) — While the northern United States shivers in zero and sub-zero temperatures today, residents of this South American capital found the sidewalks hot enough to fry eggs. In the shade the temperature soared to 105 degrees.

Submerged City's Ruins Found In 'Sacred Lake'

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Feb. 3 (P) — A Chicago deep sea diver said today he has discovered the ruins of a submerged city in Lake Titicaca—the world's highest large lake.

William Mardorf, 29, who said he learned diving with the U. S. Marine Corps, explored the bottom of the lake mainly in search of fabled Inca gold and other treasures.

So far he has found no gold but his report on the ruins and stone implements he brought to the surface have excited Bolivian archaeologists.

Mardorf descended as far as 200 feet in the waters of "The Sacred Lake" as it was called by the Incas. Its waters are frigid since the lake, although only about 15 degrees from the equator, is over 12,000 feet above sea level.

The House is expected to debate the draft extension next week, with passage almost a certainty.

Temperatures Drop As Low As Minus 42

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter stung the northeastern third of the nation Thursday with the area's worst cold wave in years.

The mercury plunged to an unofficial -42 degrees at Forestport, north of Utica, N. Y.

The midday reading was only -2 at Burlington, Vt.

(Below zero temperatures were general throughout Monroe and surrounding counties. For detailed story, see Page 5.)

Maine, in the 10th consecutive day of below zero cold, reported an overnight low of -20 at Old Town.

Another day of severe cold is forecast for the area Friday with some moderation in prospect for Saturday.

New York City had two deaths attributed to the cold and a low reading of zero. The temperature was the lowest in seven years and the coldest ever for the date. The biting cold followed a 3.7-inch snowfall.

Record low temperatures for the date were set at Albany, N. Y., with -37 and at Newark, N. J., with 1 above.

Other readings in the East included Old Forge, N. Y., -40; Saranac Lake, N. Y., -38; Newport, Vt., -30; Lebanon, N. H., -21; Kane, Pa., -21; Albany, N. Y., -18; Hanover Township, N. J., -14; Hartford, Conn., -2 and Boston, -1. Atlantic City had 5 above, lowest in six years, and Philadelphia, 5 above, coldest for date since 1881.

At midday Thursday the Southern boundary of the belt of freezing weather extended from Virginia westward across southern Kansas and into the northern and central Rockies and Great Basin area.

Afternoon temperatures held below the 10-degree mark over most of New York State and portions of surrounding states.

Midday temperatures in the 50s were the rule in the South Atlantic states and along the Gulf Coast. Readings were in the 70s in southern Florida and southern Texas.

Russia Hikes Defense Budget

MOSCOW, Feb. 3 (P) — The Russian government presented to the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) today a 1955 budget which keyed a 12 per cent increase in military expenditures to the tense international situation.

The forecast defense outlay for 1955 is 112 billion rubles. This does not represent a record. It is almost two billion rubles below the 1952 peace-time high. But the total estimated budget expenditures of almost 563 billion rubles is a new high.

Western diplomats point out it is difficult to break down the Soviet budget and determine just what is and what is not military expenditure, since the state owns all means of production. Many items which would be charged off to military expense in the United States are listed differently in a Soviet budget.

Mendes-France's Fall Nears

PARIS, Feb. 3 (P) — Premier Pierre Mendes-France, facing what appeared to be almost certain defeat, challenged the French National Assembly tonight to approve his policy in North Africa or throw him out.

The Assembly will vote on the question of confidence in the government probably early Saturday.

Although the Premier, heading France's 20th government in a little over 10 years since liberation, appealed tonight "with all my force and conviction" for the support of the Assembly, he appeared to have helped his cause but little.

The fate of the government has been extremely doubtful for a week because many deputies have grown disgruntled over many things. But it seemed to have been sealed this afternoon when former Premier Rene Mayer, broke with Mendes-

France and came out against the government.

Mayer, is the leader of the right wing of the Radical Socialists, and Mendes-France is a spokesman for the left wing of the same party. Many deputies expected 20 or 30 members of the party, which has 76 seats in the Assembly, would follow Mayer. If they did Mendes-France, premier just a little over seven months, would be out.

Although the vote would be on Mendes-France's policy of negotiating for democratic reforms to give North Africans more say in their government and undercut the nationalistic terror campaign there, many deputies hoped for his fall because he has put on pressure for the rearmament of West Germany.

Others fear the reforms in economics, taxes, prices and production he is cooking up for France.

He declared tonight he would go ahead with his policies of negotiating with North African nationalists to relax tension there "even if it means reprisals and vengeance" from his political enemies.

He told the deputies only two policies were possible in Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco. One, he said, was his policy of undertaking reforms in the direction of self-government and relaxing the tensions with North African nationalists who have been carrying on terroristic activities for years.

The alternate policy, he said, was one of police repression to put down all violence and discontent.

Sharply, he told the Assembly he had thoroughly explained his policy on three previous debates and won its consent.

Freezing Lines And Stiff Wind Thwart Firemen

TOBYHANNA—Fierce, crackling fire wiped out McKeever's Tobyhanna Inn last night as 35-mile-an-hour winds whipped the blaze to white-hot intensity and firemen stood helpless in sub-zero weather.

Eight-below-zero temperatures froze fire hose into stiff, useless coils as soon as the lines were laid. For nearly four hours, fire companies from nine area communities tried to pump water on the blazing structure, only to find their pumps were incapable of pushing the thick, frozen slush through hoses.

The fire, believed to have started in electrical wiring in the basement of the three-story frame hotel, was discovered at 4:30 p.m.

Four hours later, only a mass of coals was left where the hotel had stood.

And in the hours between, the fire had threatened a whole block of Tobyhanna village, sending residents scurrying from their homes and spreading fear that the whole village would be destroyed in flames.

The fire was found by Raymond H. McKeever, owner and operator of the hotel and Arthur Grant, a bartender there for the past three years.

Both men noticed smoke coming from the basement area at approximately the same time. They went down the basement steps to investigate.

In the basement, they told firemen later, they saw the wires flaming. There may have been fire in another part of the basement, however, Grant said, since the cellar area is divided.

The bartender grabbed for the wires, in an effort to pull them loose before the building itself caught fire. Both of his hands were severely burned. He was given emergency treatment by a physician later.

The two men decided they could not control the fire; ran upstairs and McKeever called the Coatsburg Township Fire Co. Coatsburg's pumper truck was the first one on the scene.

Fire Chief Claude Pope ordered the hose lines laid and told his volunteers to "keep the water going." Despite this, the lines and pumps were frozen in a matter of minutes, Pope reported.

Tobyhanna Signal Depot's special fire company arrived on the scene next. Their hose lines froze, too.

Firemen watched in futile silence as volunteers trying to work inside the building reported the blaze had swept through the entire basement area. Still no flames were visible in the upstairs portion.

The flames kept firemen from entering the basement through the stairway. They chopped through the main floor, trained hoses on the basement area and tried to soak the main floor enough to keep the fire from climbing. Then these hose lines froze up, too.

Mount Pocono's company pulled in. So did Daleville's. It was the same story. No sooner had the hose been laid and a few spurts of water played on the building, than the lines were frozen and useless.

Daleville's fire chief surveyed the structure; pointed to the back of the building and told other firemen: "There's the trouble. The walls are acting like flues. We have no water to get in to them."

All the way up the back wall of the hotel—as high as the middle of the third floor—firemen could see small, red glows shining through the frame of the building.

Flames had begun to eat their way up through the frames of the building. At 5:30 it was, in effect, a "box of flames" with all walls of the structure burning but no flames visible from the outside.

Firemen, who had thought until then that they would have a chance to remove furnishings from the structure, if necessary, later on, were then unable to get inside the building at all.

The volunteers succeeded in holding the fire down from 4:30 to about 6:30 p.m.

Then the fire erupted like a mammoth volcano. Flames shot through the walls to the outside of the building, coming through the rear wall first.

All along three of the building's walls, flames spluttered violently upward, showering sparks and dropping burning debris, moving with split-second speed like a giant, flat fuse.

On all three sides, literally scores of firemen stood watching. Then the flames completely encased the exterior of the building.

Almost as though by a secret cue, the winds rose, whipping flames southward. Seconds later the south wall of the hotel, and the wing lying in that direction,

Burned Inn Built Over Century Ago

THE LIFE OF Tobyhanna Inn spanned a full century or more in the history of Tobyhanna village.

It was originally built by the "Case family." Informed residents last night estimated the age of the structure at "over 100 years."

Known in its early days as one of the most exclusive resorts in the Pocono Mountains area, the "Tobyhanna House" as it was then known, was first operated by William Case, a member of the family which built it.

It was the first licensed hotel in the Tobyhanna region. Second owner and operator of the hotel was James Conish who later sold it to the "Sullivan and Clark" families who continued to operate it until the end of World War One.

Following the first World War, Joseph Rice obtained ownership of the building. It was maintained under Rice's management until the beginning of World War Two.

At this juncture in its history, the hotel passed into the hands of the United Service Organization (USO) which operated it as a service center for men stationed at the Tobyhanna Military Reservation—now the Signal Depot.

While it was under USO management, the top floor of the structure was condemned. Only the first two floors were used.

After the war ended, Raymond H. McKeever acquired ownership was turned into a tremendous torch.

Flames shot upward from 80 to 100 feet into the air. For the first time the sound of the fire could actually be heard. The dry, aged wood roared in burning. Before there had been only the steady-growing, ominous crackle of hidden flame. Now the noise of the fire was so great that bystanders shouted to be heard.

As quickly as the fire had broken forth, the flame of fear sprinted through the block. Residents, firemen and bystanders began to urge that other fire companies be called in immediately.

Again, almost by cue, other companies began arriving. They had been called earlier by John P. McHale, former fire company president at Tobyhanna and founder of the Coatsburg volunteer organization.

Among the newcomers were firemen from Newfoundland, Moscow, Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg.

The firemen then began moving furnishings and equipment from Kuebler's Mountain Hotel and Bar which stands about 30 yards from the McKeever's site. Kuebler's building lay directly south of the flaming hotel—directly in the path of the wind-swept flames.

Kuebler's building is a two-story structure, housing a dining room, a large bar and grill, with apartments located overhead.

Motorists began scurrying to move their cars away from the "downwind" area near the fire. One man climbed in his car, attempted desperately to start the motor, only to discover the car was "frozen up."

He yelled for help. Eight firemen turned to, set their shoulders to the vehicle and shoved it down the block away from the flames and sparks.

McKeever's hotel had been turned into a massive tinder-box. Pieces of the burning building were flying off. Burning boards—some of them two and three feet in length—were whipped off by the wind and blown toward the Kuebler building.

Someone ran an ordinary garden hose out the kitchen window of the Kuebler building; began spraying it on the sides and the lower part of the roof.

Large trees in the space between the two buildings caught fire from the heat. Debris and burning tree limbs tore loose and hit the adjoining building; flew over the rooftop and began settling in the Joseph Rice "annex" on the other side of the bar and grill.

As the violent wind veered sharply, sparks and bits of flaming wood were carried 150 to 200 yards beyond the burning hotel onto the tops of houses, garages and a group of old, unused farm buildings. Residents in that area began moving their cars out of garages; some left their car motors running, in case a swift evacuation was necessary.

Miraculously, none of the sparks fired the buildings on which they landed. But it was "touch and go", a fireman said. Most of the men standing around the fire expected the entire block to burn.

At this point an old—supposedly antiquated—fire engine pumper appeared on the scene and saved the night.

The pumper belonged to the Gouldsboro Fire Co.—and firemen were quick to credit Gouldsboro with turning the tide against the fire last night.

Gouldsboro's pumper was estimated to be 20 to 25 years old by firemen from another company. When the Gouldsboro company arrived, firemen dropped a line end in Tobyhanna Creek (where four pumpers stood, completely frozen), started their ancient pump and a steady, full stream of water spouted from the hose.

With the Gouldsboro pumper, working full force, firemen were able to "soak" the adjoining buildings; spray a steady stream of water on flying sparks and debris when they landed and prevent the spread of the flames.

A few minutes later, McKee's hotel collapsed, leaving only one wing—on the north—standing. The north wall stayed up, straight and flaming starkly against the pale yellow circle of light cast by headlamps and searchlight spots.

It remained standing for about 20 minutes. Then it, too, crashed to the ground.

It sent a brilliant, flashing screen of sparks spewing outward as it fell. But the crisis had ended.

From then on, it was merely a question of "standing by" to make sure the flames did not start up again and to check the spread of sparks from the debris.

Even after the building had been flattened, intense heat from the coals set fire to a large tree. The tree stood about 15 yards upwind from the hotel in the yard of the P. J. Scanlon home.

During the fire, women from the Coolbaugh Fire Co. Auxiliary made sandwiches and huge steaming pots of coffee in the Scanlon kitchen. They carried the cups out into the sub-zero weather, handing it by narrow-chilled firemen and bystanders.

At 9:30 the oblong area where Tobyhanna Inn had stood was a level, soot-hot mass of embers almost like a bed of charcoal. But there were no flames.

The hotel had housed 17 tenants. Nearly all are employed at Tobyhanna Signal Depot. None were in the building at the time of the fire.

Among tenants seeking new quarters after the fire were Maj. Thomas Brown; hotel chef Frank Bennett; hotel dishwasher Peter Simonabach; and depot civilian employes William Kane and Grant R. Sala.

All of the inhabitants lost their belongings in the fire. Estimate of the loss in personal furnishings could not be made last night.

Neither could an official estimate of damages or loss from the hotel's destruction. McKee told a reporter: "I don't know how much the loss will be and I won't say, tonight." He did say, however, that the building was partially insured.

An unofficial estimate of $70,000 or more was given by a resident of the community, however, who said that McKee had spent a considerable sum in refurbishing the structure after he purchased it. Throughout most of the fire McKee stood, solemn and uncomplaining, in the yard of the Scanlon home surrounded by a meager salvage from the hotel.

Included in the pile of rescued articles were a cigarette machine, a couple of cases of beer, a few bottles from the tavern and a small assortment of furniture from the taproom.

At 9:45 p.m., only two things remained standing where the four walls of the hotel had risen only five hours before.

One was the stark, smoldering column of a chimney, jutting upward 10 feet into the air in a straight, sturdy line.

The second was the jumbled, twisted mass of a fire escape.

Its straight steps had been warped by the intense heat of the fire and it made a crooked, crazy pattern against the sudden blackness of the sky.

Your Horoscope Today

By FRANCIS DRAKE

FOR FRIDAY, FEB. 4, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Big or little task? If it's on your schedule and doesn't detract from the fulfillment of project, give it the proper respect and evaluation. Many elements make the whole.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—May have to walk a narrow path to keep out of mischief today, but it won't be dull or difficult. Might be well, too, to finish incomplete matters on calendar rather than take on new ones.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini)—You may hit on something new that could be advantageous, perhaps really profitable if you hold ideas and emotions in sensible circle and don't be changeable. But seek fresh advantages.

June 21 to July 20 (Cancer)—A little with contentment is great gain; could be today's sensible slogan. Go forward, of course, but don't fret or worry if you can't advance all you had hoped you would.

July 21 to August 20 (Leo)—All days don't yield in measure as we like but no day is a loser if we don't waste it on pointless purposeless things. Meaning? It is up to us today what we do with our time, energy, talents.

August 21 to September 20 (Virgo)—Favored among other useful and essential activities and affairs are designing, decorating, authoring stories, plays, all artistic professions, teaching and study. Industry can gain.

September 21 to October 20 (Libra)—Your indications similar to Gemini now. Be ambitious but don't overreach and perhaps be disappointed because you do not gain all you want. It can be a good day for a good YOI.

October 21 to November 20 (Scorpio)—Perhaps an unusual day in several ways. Things out of the ordinary favored if they have value or can be of some good to family, business, the community. Interesting news.

November 21 to December 20 (Sagittarius)—A few obstacles or even competition doesn't usually deter you bright, energetic folks so if one or both appear today, handle them intelligently and stay with your plans.

December 21 to January 20 (Capricorn)—Your natural determination and perseverance (not overdone) can be great aids in all you do today. Don't grow impatient with seemingly small details; view it all as a whole picture.

January 21 to February 20 (Aquarius)—May have to be doubly alert and attentive to duties and extra tasks now but you will be rewarded in like measure, especially if you keep in good humor and help others along, too.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—No pushing in two directions, friend. Set your pattern early in day's schedule and do your best to stick to it unless urgent deviations crop up. You may have some change, faith!

YOI: JOHN TODAY! Brain, quick of thought, not impulsive. Often creative and ingenious but do not always follow through your good ideas and intentions and reap the fine results you should. Be constantly on the watch to avoid unwholesome associates. They could have had effect upon you and your business. Bright, intelligent and high-principled companions will be a boon. You have splendid talents, general capability and the patience and perseverance to make them very intelligent while. Try daily for God's worth. ## Baby Perishes In Fire; Three Others Escape

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., Feb. 3 (AP)—An 18-month-old baby burned to death yesterday as three brothers and sisters ran to safety when fire broke out in their one-floor frame home.

Dead was Iola Jean Starkweather, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Starkweather of nearby Pine Creek Twp. Mrs. Starkweather was visiting a neighbor and her husband was working in a barn near the house when the fire started.

Starkweather and firemen from

Avis, Clinton County, made repeated attempts to rescue the baby but were driven back by the flames.

The other Starkweather children ran from the house and were not harmed.

Firemen were unable to determine the cause of the blaze.

The People's Health

To most of us health is a matter of concern to ourselves, our doctor, and perhaps our insurance company.

Yet the health of the American people also is a proper concern of the Government, and it has become increasingly evident that many victims of illness and disability cannot provide adequate treatment out of their own resources. Moreover, the problem has become too heavy a burden for even the immense amount of charity our medical profession so generously provides.

President Eisenhower's message to Congress proposes a series of governmental programs designed to plug the gaps by supplementing—not interfering with—the traditional private system of medical care.

In the field of health insurance, it would enable insurance companies to offer more protection against prolonged illness and disability—a protection which few Americans now have or can afford. The purpose would be accomplished through a Federal health reinsurance service.

The President also recommends more Federal grants to states and communities, on a matching basis, to improve medical care for the aged, the blind, dependent children, and disabled people who are on the public assistance rolls.

He would have the Federal Government encourage construction of hospitals and other medical facilities by insuring mortgage loans, and help relieve the chronic shortage of nurses by aiding training programs in the states and establishing traineeships in the Public Health Service.

In the matter of health insurance, the best part of Mr. Eisenhower's program is that it includes a guarantee to the public—similar to the insurance that protects the individual's bank account—that the health insurance he buys is sound.

The Bloody Nose Business

In 1953, the Supreme Court ruled that professional baseball was a sport, and not a business subject to the anti-monopoly laws.

Now the court has held that boxing for pay is not subject to the same exemption from anti-monopoly prosecution. This leaves the implication that boxing is not a sport.

We know some television viewers who came to that conclusion without any study of the law.

Shopping Abroad

Perhaps the number of tourists who have $1000 to spend shopping is not great, but those who do will be grateful—as will the countries they visit—if Congress follows President Eisenhower's recommendation to double the present $500 duty-free merchandise limit.

This spending is a significant element of our international trade, because the dollars spent for personal shopping are no different from those involved in commerce—and they all return here in the form of payments for American products.

There could hardly be a more pleasant way for Americans to help foreign countries close their "dollar gap."

George Sokolsky Says . . .

It Is Formosa Or Bust For Chou En-Lai And Nothing Short Of That Will Serve

The argument for the cease-fire plan is that any shooting can lead to universal shooting, that is, to World War III. The efforts of Great Britain are designed to avoid, one might almost say evade, World War III. The British do not argue that they know what the advantage of a delayed war might be; they do know the disadvantages of an immediate war, namely, that the British Isles could be wiped clean because of the ferocity of current weapons.

Sir Anthony Eden has started the British intention in one paragraph:

"In this situation the first concern of Her Majesty's Government is to stop the fighting. They have therefore continued to urge on all concerned the importance of doing this and of preventing a wider conflagration. A solution of these delicate and difficult problems is not to be reached by force. A settlement can only be arrived at by the peaceful processes of patient negotiation."

The argument against the cease-fire and the United Nations mediation is that the Red Chinese want Formosa, they want it particularly before the April Conference of Asiatic-African nations. It is not so much a matter of reason as of "face." If Chou En-Lai can defeat the United States on this issue, he could elbow Nehru aside and become the dominant individual in Asia.

It is apparent that Soviet Russia is beginning to wonder about Chou En-Lai's Napoleonism but whatever decisions concerning Formosa are made in the Soviet Universal State, the Kremlin will make them, possibly at the Supreme Soviet meeting which began on February 3. However, the Russians probably will not decline the role of mediator with the hope that they can hand Formosa and the Pescadores to Red China, thus proving that the junior partner in the Soviet Universal State cannot do as well as the senior partner. That would deprive Chou En-Lai of "face" while getting the benefits of the mediation.

Whichever way it is done, through the United Nations or by Russian intervention, the cease-fire can only lead to prolonged negotiations for the abandonment of Formosa by the United States. Recognition of Red China by the United States or a seat in the United Nations for Red China, or the division of China into two, the People's Republic of China and the Republic of Formosa, will not be enough. What Chou En-Lai wants is Formosa, neither for its strategic value nor as an act of irredentism but to strengthen his position among the Asiatic nations, to give him "face" by another defeat of the United States, to prove to the Asiatic world that he is the smartest and ablest man in Asia, not excepting the moralistic busybody, Nehru.

This view of the situation is well understood on both sides and is frightening for all the Europeans and Asiatics, except Red China because it can lead to a hysterical act committed for public opinion rather than for a sound goal. The comments on the cease-fire in the Red Chinese press would indicate that there is little mood for mediation. It is suggested in this country that the Red Chinese press adopted a similar tone before the cease-fire in Korea. The situation was altogether different; the stakes were smaller; the peril to Red China not as great. If Chou En-Lai fails in his current objectives, his own position in the Soviet Universal State will be considerably reduced; he will have lost "face" in China; he will not be the co-leader-of-the-way at the Bandung Conference. His greatest ambition, which is to succeed Mao Tse-tung, may become unachievable. It is Formosa or bust—for him.

This is what makes this situation so extremely difficult. Sir Anthony Eden, in the speech in the House of Commons from which I have already quoted, said:

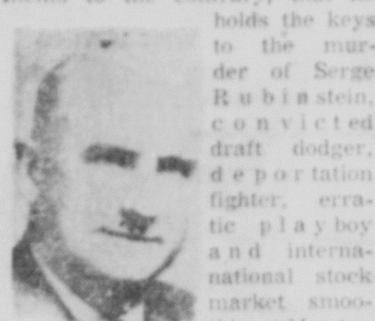

"Her Majesty's Government are, however, satisfied that the problem of the coastal islands is susceptible of a peaceful solution if only all concerned are prepared to work for it."

It will take many schemes and much working out to prevent war from breaking out on account of Formosa. Short of driving out Chiang Kai-shek and giving all the islands along the China coast to Red China, little is fully satisfying to the proud and insatiable Chou En-Lai, who is not subject to the kind of public opinion which exists in Great Britain and the United States.

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

MURDER PROBE: Dablyn Crymes, the great detective, thinks, police developments to the contrary, that he holds the keys to the murder of Serge Rubinstein, convicted draft dodger, deportation fighter, erratic playboy and international stock market smoothie. "My top theory is that it was a secret United Nations act, defied by nations which feared they might have to take him if he ever got deported," said the sleuth, advancing a very novel idea. "It is not generally realized how distressed many countries were by this prospect."

"I am also questioning a certain Mrs. X," said the sleuth, "a famous writer of whodunits, who had always wanted to do a thriller in which a dead man got out of it through his lawyers. My theory is that she slew him, confident from his record, that he would bear out her theory by hook or crook." The detective added that he also gave credence to a "partly accidental suicide" theory. "Suicide!" we exclaimed. "Certainly," he replied. "It is considered impossible for a man to tie his own hands and feet, but here was a man who never ceased trying to prove he could do what nobody else could do and get away with it." The detective announced these supplementary theories.

1.—It was an accident. The victim fell upstairs. Impossible to fall upstairs? Not with his skill and experience in executing incredible movements in any direction.

2.—The slayer was a high-court jurist driven mad by endless briefs, demurrers and appeals.

3.—On Serge's dresser were several stirring novels. It is possible he was himself a whodunit fan, and, believing anything could be done if you had enough money, tied himself up in an effort to corner the mystery novel market and get away unscathed.

"It occurs to me, also, that he may have been hit by an auto," the detective went on. "Cars run off the road and into houses regularly these days."

"But it is possible for a car to hit a house two flights up?" we asked.

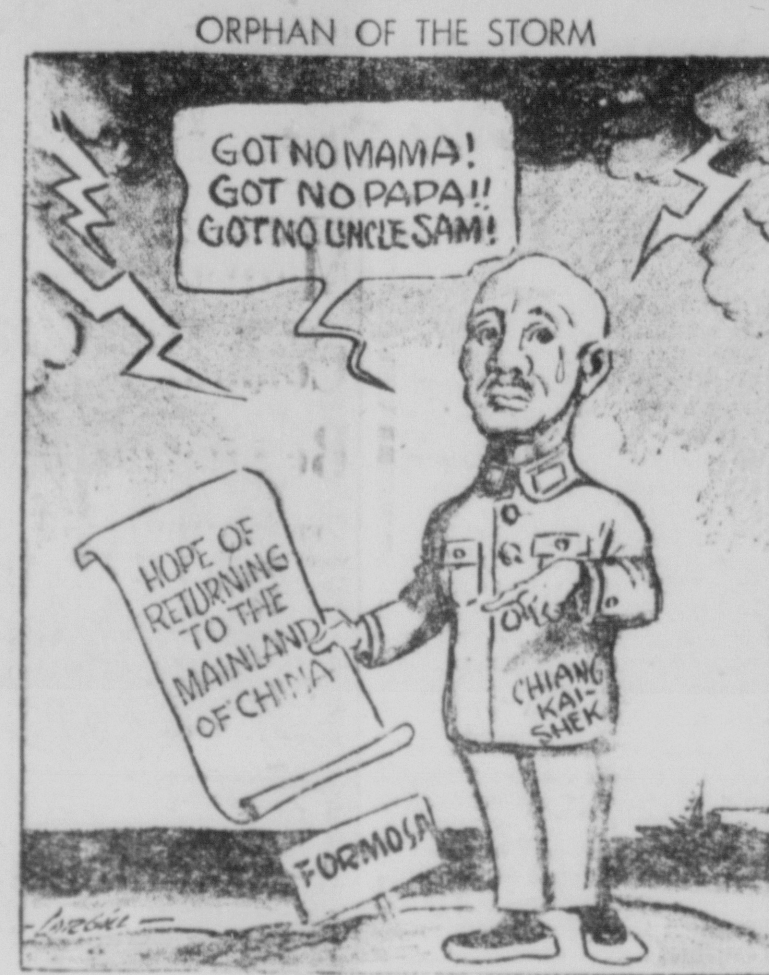

"It's done every day by these two a. m. drivers," snapped Dablyn Crymes. "The driver may have tied him up to fool the police."

A city cop who had been listening skeptically asked Dablyn Crymes this question: "But do you think Serge is definitely gone?"

"That's the question," admitted the sleuth. "The case is less than a week old. Those who have followed his career think he may

Any Improvement After 50 Years Is Useless

Wouldn't you think people who keep hounding a man to improve himself would give up after they quarry clear the 50-year mark? Any slight improvement a man can make in himself after 50 is unlikely to do him a nickel's worth of good. All his associates have got so used to him the way he has always been that they'd never notice a change less drastic than a sudden penchant for pink sarongs.

But there are solicitous strangers who never abandon hope that you will one day take the trouble to make something of yourself. Or perhaps they are only determined that if you don't it won't be their fault.

Take Harper & Brothers, for example. They have done so well in the publishing business that I wouldn't have believed they ever gave a second thought to the likes of me and our shortcomings. Yet here they are, importing me as follows:

"NOW—You can improve your voice and speaking ability this amazing, easy way—by listening to Milton Cross in your own home." Milton Cross? Let's see—oh yes! The fellow with the round pecan-tones and the wing-collar diction who used to recite the program notes for the Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street. Mmm-hmm . . . yeah.

"Your ability to speak well on any occasion," the Harper boys continue, "is a priceless asset in business, social life and day-to-day living. It gives you self-confidence in any company, and forces your associates and friends to recognize your true worth . . ."

"This unique course explains and illustrates every aspect of speaking effectively. It shows you how to banish forever the fear of talking on your feet—how to make your voice more resonant, richer in tone, and more capable of holding the interest of listeners—how to achieve complete relaxation of voice, manner and body—and how to speak without the slightest trace of nervousness, timidity or self-consciousness."

But suppose a person doesn't WANT to talk like Milton Cross. Suppose he associates with, and likes, people who are inclined to be a little slipshod in their speech—except in the presence of college presidents. Suppose he is convinced that his friends would laugh if they suddenly heard Old Mushmouth booming out rich, resonant, clearly enunciated words just like a radio announcer.

Would it be all right for him not to listen to the Milton Cross records and just go on being unrelaxed, self-conscious and unsuccessful in business, social life and day-to-day living?

There was a time when the Cross treatment would have had a strong appeal to me, but not any more. I'm old enough now to know that my most serious shortcoming as a speaker is that I don't have enough to say—and so often talk too much before I realize it.

Try and Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

Bernard Baruch was asked a short time ago for an opinion on the stock market. He refused to single out any one stock, but did vouchsafe two rules he's observed scrupulously himself:

1. Never pay any attention to what a president of a company ever tells you about his own stock.

2. When the market's gyrations on the up side hit the front page of The New York Times, sell!

Broker Washington Dodge remembers a Japanese trader who picked the very bottom of the market in 1932, and advised his customers to go in any buy (though right he was) in a message uniting among documents of its kind: "Here is good money; the elevator which seemed impossibly has now hit the bottom and will quickly express without its hat and coat. All traders must not miss boat, now that castor oil season is over, and beautiful flowers and bugles will be blowing heart-break for damfool bears!"

Crop yields per acre of American farms have improved more during and since World War Two than in the previous sixty years.

Asia and Africa, with more than 60 per cent of the world's population, produce only a little more than 30 per cent of the value of the world's agricultural output.

First Atomic Test At Nevada Due On Feb. 20

Washington, February 4—The first atomic test, in the new series on the Nevada firing range, will take place the week of February 20—weather permitting.

Senator Clinton Anderson (D., N. M.), chairman of the Joint Atomic Committee, has invited every member of Congress to witness either this test or one of two others that have been scheduled—for the week of February 27 and the week of April 3.

This will be the first time the entire Congress has the chance to see an atomic explosion. Previously, attendance was limited to several committees.

Senator Anderson's letter informs the legislators they will be flown to Nevada by the Military Air Transport Service. Also that they will be allowed to inspect the test sites before and after the explosion.

Anderson emphasizes that special precautions are being taken to safeguard residents in the "areas adjacent to" the large firing range.

No hydrogen weapons will be tested in the forthcoming series. The explosions will be limited to atomic bombs. These include certain new ones of a tactical nature.

The number of tests may exceed any previous series. That depends largely on the weather. If it is satisfactory, tests will be carried out on a weekly basis during the later part of this month, in March and into April.

Note: President Eisenhower has authorized the Atomic Commission to conduct new hydrogen weapon tests, if they are deemed necessary. That is now under discussion by Commission experts. If there are such tests, they will be in the South Pacific where the last ones were held.

New Pentagon Headache—The Formosa crisis may touch off a big congressional explosion over the manner in which the Defense Department is disposing of huge quantities of surplus military supplies.

Members of the House Government Operations Committee are charging that, in the event of a national emergency, much of these cheaply-sold materials will have to be bought back at heavy cost to the government—as happened during the Korean conflict.

A preliminary Committee study has disclosed the Pentagon is disposing of surplus equipment at the rate of more than $1,500,000 in original value a year.

Army supplies that cost around $100,000,000 are being unloaded monthly.

According to the Committee's findings, these supplies are being sold at less than 10 percent of their original value.

The Committee's probe, also disclosed that the Defense Department is disregarding a provision in the law giving state and local agencies priority rights in securing these surplus goods.

The highly critical report cites a number of instances in which the armed services had to dispose of at a big loss.

Another glaring example of bungling noted by the Committee is as follows:

"Recently the Navy's Bureau of Yards and Docks sold approximately $5,000,000 worth of earth-moving equipment, such as tractors, trucks, compressors, etc. Undoubtedly much of this equipment could be used in connection with the highway program proposed by the President. Also, such equipment would be necessary in case of another national emergency."

The Committee vigorously urges a "sweeping investigation of the whole surplus property disposal program," and lists the following reasons, among others, for that:

"The Department of Defense has set aside the carefully-considered intent of Congress giving state and local governments priority rights in the securing of these supplies. . . . Surplus material sales are returning on an average of five to seven percent of the original cost value. In addition, the armed services are spending $40,000,000 of receipts from sales for selling purposes."

Roadside Zoning Necessary

—by H. G. Heller

The roadside problem, which we have so frequently discussed here, has been brought into very sharp focus because of the projected multi-million dollar increase in the nation's highway building program.

One of the first to recognize the added importance of roadside protection has been the American Automobile Association—the parent body of the Pocono Mountains Automobile Club.

Proponents of roadside protective legislation say such measures are needed if we are to prevent uncontrolled commercial development from ruining the new highways as it has ruined many roads built in the past.

Over-commercialization along roadways has two very unfavorable effects, AAA emphasizes:

It results in a multiplicity of entrance and exit driveways connected with the main thoroughfare; this seriously diminishes the traffic efficiency of the highway and makes its outer lanes potential death traps.

It makes right of way costs so prohibitive that widening is impossible and a modern highway must be built on an entirely new location.

Thus, the roadside problem which once was largely viewed in terms of aesthetics, has now become primarily a matter of economics and safety and a means of protecting our huge investments in highway improvements.

Provision of adequate widths of right of way and limitation or control of access are two of the most important steps that need to be taken for protection of new highways.

In addition, the American Automobile Association, along with other groups concerned with the roadside problem, are urging the adoption of highway zoning laws.

Broadly speaking, highway zoning works more or less like urban or community zoning but is confined to roadside areas.

Under the terms of the AAA's draft or "guide" for road zoning, there would be set up a "highway protection strip" extending for a thousand feet on each side of the highway.

Within this strip, there would be established several types of districts such, for example, as industrial districts, business districts, residential districts, roadside service districts and rural districts.

Future development in each of the districts would be in line with its major characteristics. Provisions would be made, of course, for variations and exceptions.

This, we feel, is the ultimate answer to the roadside problem.

Temperatures Drop Below Zero Throughout Monroe County

Seven Below Official In Two Boroughs

IT GETS colder and colder in this first week of February and there appears no signs of immediate relief ahead. Sub-freezing weather and the possibility of another snowfall have been forecast for the weekend.

Many sectors of the United States were undergoing freezing temperatures for the third straight day yesterday and Pennsylvania certainly had its share. Zero and below temperatures were common throughout the state yesterday and the same was true for the Stroudsburg and Monroe County.

Stroudsburg had its coldest day of the season as the mercury dropped to seven below early yesterday morning and was still a minus six at 8 a. m. It moved up to 14 above during the day. It was four above late last night but strong winds made the rise hardly noticeable.

Pocono Pines reported the coldest temperature in this area with an unofficial 16 below zero and it was around the -15 mark at Blakeslee. Other figures were: -12 in the Newfoundland-Greentown sector; -8 near Tannersville; -12 at Tobyhanna; -6 at Canadensis; -6 at Effort; and -7 (official) at Mount Pocono.

Harry Greene, weather observer at High Point, Mount Pocono, said the high for the day there was only six degrees above zero. The needle was right at the zero mark late last night, with northwest winds at 24 miles an hour causing snowdrifts throughout the area. "It was a real wintry day," commented Greene. He predicted it might even surpass the seven below figure early this morning.

Shivering Pennsylvanians can blame an intense cold wave from Canada for this uneasy weather. Little East Benton Township in Lackawanna County reported the coldest unofficial reading of -27 degrees, while it was an official 21 below at Kane, McKean County.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Philadelphia said last night that a low pressure area in the southwest may bring moisture from the Gulf today. This would mean more snow unless temperatures rise unexpectedly.

State and local police reported all roads were slippery but open for traffic last night. No accidents were reported to have been caused by conditions.

Many residents throughout the state left their cars home preferring public transportation. Several schools throughout the Commonwealth were closed and others reported absenteeism running high. Constant cinderling and snow removal prevented any serious accidents on the Pennsylvania Turnpike and other major state highways.

Three Cars, Truck Collide When Driver Dozes At Wheel

AN AFTERNOON DOZE at the wheel resulted in a W. Main St. accident involving three cars and a tractor-trailer truck yesterday at 4:05 p. m. Stroudsburg police estimated damages to the four vehicles at almost $1,600.

The four-way collision occurred on a slippery road and held up traffic for over an hour, the investigating police reported.

John Raseley, 80, Dies At Saylorsburg

JOHN E. RASELEY, 80, of Saylorsburg, died at his home at 4:30 a. m. yesterday after an illness of three years.

Son of the late Paul and Eliza Van Buskirk Raseley, he had lived all his life in the Saylorsburg region where he was a farmer until his retirement three years ago.

He was a member of Mount Eaton Reformed Church, the POS of A in Saylorsburg, the IOOF of Sciota and a charter member of the Blue Ridge Hook and Ladder Co.

Surviving are his wife, Anna; two grandchildren; a brother, Allan Raseley, Vestal, N. Y.; a sister, Mrs. Lizzie Gumm, Tatamy, and a niece.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. at Daniel Warner funeral home, Stroudsburg. Rev. Adan Bohner will officiate. Interment will be made in Mount Eaton Cemetery, Saylorsburg. Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p. m. Monday.

Mental Health Committee To Be Organized

FIRST STEPS were taken this week toward establishment of a Monroe County Medical Health Committee.

In a meeting at the county school office, a group of interested local citizens conferred with Dr. Preston W. Thomas, deputy commissioner of mental health in Harrisburg.

In the group were Rev. Luther Markin; Marian Fields and Ann Shafer, both state nurses in this area; Elizabeth Martin, county probation officer; Mrs. Berenice All, Department of Public Assistance, and Bennett Strait, special education adviser for Monroe, Wayne and Pike counties.

The meeting was held Tuesday morning in Strait's office. Last night Strait said that the first conference was preliminary to an effort to set up a full-scale, continuing committee on mental health problems for the local area.

The original idea of the committee was attributed to Rev. Markin by Strait. The special education adviser said those attending the first conference felt that there are many persons in this area who are in need of consultation to help solve difficulties or maladjustments which may often prevent them from holding jobs.

Helping such persons help themselves will be one of the basic aims of the committee, spokesman said. A second—and equally important—goal will be in the field of public education.

The second in a series of meetings will be held "in the near future," Strait said. Featured speaker at that meeting will be a psychiatric social worker from the State Mental Health group.

The date of the meeting, place and time will be announced this month.

Hungarian Red Given New Term

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Louis Weinstock, 51-year-old Hungarian-born Communist, was sentenced to one to five years in prison today for lying in an affidavit to the Subversive Activities Control Board.

Weinstock was convicted yesterday of swearing falsely to the SACB that there has been no committee or organization known as the "United May Day Committee" since 1948. He was acquitted today on a second count.

His 1-to-5-year sentence is to run concurrently with a 3-year sentence given him in New York in January of last year. He was one of 13 "second string" Communists convicted then of conspiring to teach and advocate the forcible overthrow of the government.

The girl's family said she left home with Snyder last night about 8:30. The parked auto was found today at 11 a. m.

Police said they have not determined yet if the motor of the auto was running. Two communities near the fatal scene—Boardman and Bishin—reported unofficial overnight temperatures of 22 degrees below zero.

The Saturday night operation of meters will be cut back to 6 p. m. from the existing 9 p. m. operating hour.

Mike Guzy, Pocono Lake, Dies At 84

MIKE GUZY, 84, of Pocono Lake, died at 12:30 a. m. yesterday in General Hospital.

He was born in Czechoslovakia; came to this area 40 years ago. He was employed for many years by the Mountain Ice Co. in Pocono Lake.

Funeral services will be held at 8 p. m. today in William Thomas funeral home. Interment will be made in Pocono Lake Cemetery, Saturday morning.

Guzy's wife died in Czechoslovakia about a year ago. He is survived by a daughter, Mary, who lives in Czechoslovakia.

Princess Cheered

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Feb. 3 (AP)—Thirty thousand Trinidad school children today danced, sang, paraded, cheered and waved the Union Jack for Princess Margaret.

The boys and girls jammed the grandstands and the rain-soaked cricket field at the Queen's Park Oval in downtown Port of Spain at a children's rally in honor of Queen Elizabeth II's 24-year-old sister.

The princess' luck in the weather turned sour as she concluded an hour-long state drive through the city's colorful streets and attended a town hall reception in the morning. The rain poured during the children's rally.

The slim princess, dressed in pink silk, rode around the oval in an open jeep-type vehicle while the children cheered and waved lustily. Princess Margaret waved her white-gloved hand back at them and smiled.

She then took her seat in the grandstand and received flowers and gifts from Trinidad orphanages. She watched a marching review of other children, heard a massed children's choir and watched secondary school boys perform gymnastics.

Ground Observer Corps To Establish Observation Post At Brodheadsville

THE GROUND OBSERVER Corps has announced plans to establish an observation post at Brodheadsville. Such a move would provide Monroe County with four such important stations for observing aircraft.

M/Sgt. Stanley Mick of the Harrisburg Air Defense Filter Center spoke to the West End Fire Co. about the plan at a recent meeting in Brodheadsville. The firemen also witnessed a film on air defense.

Another meeting and film showing is scheduled for March 1 at the firehouse. All people interested in GOC work are invited to attend. Volunteers for assignments at the new post may contact Charles Hoffman of Brodheadsville.

The county's fourth observation station would be located at the firehouse. Others have been operating successfully on a part time basis at Kunkletown, East Stroudsburg and Tobyhanna.

Mick will set up training classes when a sufficient number of workers are enrolled. Members will later be assigned various watches to stand at the post.

The Air Force representative will work with Paul Crawn, executive director of Civil Defense for the county, in giving this area outstanding protection against enemy attack.

Mick said his aim is to build the Ground Observer Corps up to the high standards of the strong Civil Defense groups throughout Monroe County. His plans call for continued expansion according to the needs of the section.

Any information concerning operation of the observer group or plans for the Brodheadsville station may be secured by contacting Crawn at the county courthouse.

Police Check Mystery Death Of Physician

BALTIMORE, Feb. 3 (AP)—Police are checking into the death here of a New Yorker who apparently called his wife 17 minutes after a telegram was sent announcing he was dead.

The body of a man who registered as Dr. Edward James Phillips was found yesterday afternoon sprawled across the bed in a room at the Lord Baltimore Hotel.

An autopsy late today showed he died of "barbiturate poisoning," instead of a heart attack as had been previously suspected.

However, Dr. Russell S. Fisher, city medical examiner, said it would be about two days before he'd be able to tell whether death was caused by "a potent-acting group of barbiturates" or a simple overdose of phenobarbital.

Detective Lt. George Klemmick said there were no signs of violence. Investigators found $24.83 in cash, a railroad ticket from Baltimore to New York, several insulin bottles, a hypodermic syringe and other paraphernalia a doctor might carry.

The hotel found the body after getting a call from Dr. Erna Gutenstein, a New York dentist.

She said she had been invited to a testimonial dinner last night in New York for Phillips but yesterday morning received a telegram from Baltimore saying:

"It is with sincere regret that I must inform you that dinner will be canceled Wednesday evening due to sudden death of Edward James Phillips from heart attack in Baltimore."

The wire was signed "Robert Ritter."

Western Union records showed the telegram originated at a pay station in the hotel lobby at 12:25 a.m. Wednesday morning.

Hotel records showed Phillips called his wife in New York from his room at 12:42 a.m.

Lt. Klemmick reported Mrs. Phillips said her husband called her to tell her the testimonial dinner might have to be canceled because of the death of the guest speaker.

Dr. Gutenstein said it was her understanding a retired Army colonel by the name of Robert Ritter was to be the guest speaker at the dinner.

Officials at Ft. Jay and at the Pentagon in Washington said they had no record of an officer by that name. New York medical directories list no Dr. Edward James Phillips.

No Sick Leave For New Mothers

MONTEPELIER, Vt., Feb. 3 (AP)—Expectant mothers who are state employees will not be granted sick leave or leave of absence because of pregnancy. The Vermont Personnel Board has ruled:

"Since pregnancy is accepted as

Defense Work Sought By Scrantonians

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—A delegation representing the Scranton, Pa., Chamber of Commerce today laid the city's unemployment problem before top officials of the Office of Defense Mobilization.

An ODM spokesman said the group informed Director Arthur S. Flemming and Wayne Althaus, acting deputy assistant director for manpower, that Scranton has 15,000 unemployed and needs "a shot in the arm" in the nature of defense contracts for plants not operating full time.

The Scranton committee told the ODM officials that the city has decided it cannot rely on the coal industry any more and is endeavoring to get additional industries to locate there. Already, they said, the city has attracted a number of new companies.

Although the ODM has no authority in the matter of awarding defense contracts, representatives of the Defense Department and the General Services Administration—a procurement agency—attended the meeting.

C. D. Women To Enroll In Auxiliary

ONE OF the most important meetings since the formation of Civil Defense in this area is scheduled for the Day St. fire station, East Stroudsburg, next Tuesday night, Burgess Jersey Flory has issued a statement urging all available women to attend this session and learn how they may play key roles in protecting their community.

Chief Gertrude Blitz of the Women's Auxiliary Police and her staff will conduct the enrollment of members into the women's unit. Numerous organizations have been contacted in hopes of forming a large class for emergency training. All women over 18 years of age are asked to be on hand. The recently graduated men's Auxiliary Police force will hold its first official meeting at this time.

Flory's statement is as follows: "I want to recommend and encourage all women to boost Civil Defense in our county by becoming members of the auxiliary police. At a time like this, one never knows what the next day will bring. It is foghardly not to prepare for emergencies even though we hope they never occur."

"In behalf of the community, I want to compliment the fine piece of work done by Civil Defense workers in East Stroudsburg under the direction of J. Fielding Vollers and his assistants. Civil Defense has made great progress here."

"In this vein, all of us should be proud of what these people are doing for us. We should help all we can to improve the CD program. I am very happy to see the expansion to women in the auxiliary police. We have seen the outstanding work they have done in defense demonstrations and know they will realize the value of forming a force equal to the large men's police group."

"I wholeheartedly recommend to all citizens to support this Civil Defense work and encourage every available woman to enroll in the Auxiliary Police School."

Vollers, the East Stroudsburg CD director, and Mrs. Catherine Miller, Headquarters Supervisor in Stroudsburg, will be on hand at the session as will Paul Crawn, Monroe County executive director.

Those women now enrolled in the school will receive their official membership cards during the meeting. A full-scale signing of members will be conducted throughout the night.

Classes will begin in the near future with State Police Instructor Arthur Jones in charge. Jones was credited with an outstanding job in turning out a record class

Senate Leaders Postpone Consideration Of Mutual Defense Pact With Chiang

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Senate consideration of that recently-negotiated mutual defense treaty with the Chinese Nationalists has been postponed pending the outcome of the UN move for a cease-fire in the Formosa crisis.

This unannounced delay is due primarily to certain contradictions between the pact and the Administration's joint resolution passed by Congress last week.

Republican and Democratic leaders are agreed on the temporary shelving of the treaty. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee was scheduled to begin hearings on the matter this week, but they were quietly called off after several private conferences between Sen. Walter George (D-Ga.), chairman, and Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr.

Committeemen have been told that Hoover urged withholding Senate action at this time. Some committeemen are hinting the pact will be shelved permanently and the Senate will never be asked to ratify it.

One prominent member of the committee bases this view on the contention the treaty "gives Chiang Kai-shek too much say over our policies."

The bipartisan committeemen who approved delaying consideration of the pact include Senators Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.), former chairman, H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), Harry Byrd (D-Va.), John Sparkman (D-Ala.), Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) and Wayne Morse (Ind-Ore).

Undersecretary Hoover is credited by committeemen with indicating that the contradictions between the treaty and the joint resolution might prove harmful to UN cease-fire efforts.

It is said the divergences might be used by the Reds for their own ends.

Senator Byrd stressed these contradictions in an unreported statement during last week's debate on the joint resolution. The Virginia leader had originally intended to voice his views in a speech, but withheld doing that to speed up action on the resolution. But he minced no words in the statement inserted in the Congressional Record (pages 837-8).

Byrd was bluntly critical of the treaty, Chiang Kai-shek, and the resolution. He questioned the wisdom of the first and last and the competence of the Nationalist leader.

If all the natural ice on earth were to melt, it would release enough water to raise sea level perhaps 100 feet, says the National Geographic Society.

Millionaires Chip In Increasingly Large Sums To Support Religious Enterprises

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (U)—Wealthy Americans are investing big sums in God's business.

There used to be only a scattered few religious-minded millionaires who chipped in to support the work of their churches, but today this is becoming a more common practice.

"Many more businessmen who have made big fortunes seem inclined these days to make large gifts to the religious enterprises of the nation," said veteran philanthropy expert Arnaud C. Marts.

Beyond the inevitable "You can't take it with you," why are they doing it?

"It's a desire to make a better world," said Marts, president of Marts and Lundy, fund-raising counselors. "There's a greater social conscience among businessmen, an increase in social responsibility."

Although John D. Rockefeller Jr.'s 20-million-dollar gift last month to strengthen Protestant theological education is the biggest single religious donation ever made it came as part of a growing trend.

Records kept by the John Price Jones fund-raising agency of religious gifts of $1,000 or more by individuals, foundations or corporations in 10 major cities, show a sharp climb since World War Two.

While such gifts totaled only $145,000 back in the early 1940s they jumped to nearly two-million in 1945, to 6½ million in 1946, sagged to the three-million-plus bracket through 1949, then shot up again.

In 1950, these big-lump gifts passed the eight-million mark, soared in 1951 to 19 million, then to 29½ million in 1952, down to 9½ million in 1953, then sharply up again in 1954 to nearly 14 million.

The cities where researcher Gladys F. MacGee kept a check are New York, Baltimore, Boston, Chicago, Houston, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Washington.

Although the cycle fluctuates from year to year, the over-all picture is one of phenomenal increase in contributions by the rich.

"Some wealthy people have always given something to religion, like the Rockefeller and Carnegies," said the Rev. Thomas K. Thompson, head of the Stewardship Department of the National Council of Churches.

"But the number has increased very noticeably."

He attributed this to a general rise in religious interest, to a growing disillusionment with material things alone, and a belief that only religion can save off the threat of atomic annihilation.

During the last few years, newspaper files from around the country are sprinkled with reports of big gifts to religious purposes.

Industrialist Myron C. Taylor, former presidential envoy to the Vatican, last month gave a million-dollar gift to the Protestant Episcopal Church for a center on Long Island.

Here are a few other gifts of recent times:

For the fifth straight year, businessman Frank J. Lewis, of Chicago gave $100,000 to the Roman Catholic Church Extension Society, a half million dollars since 1949.

Sportsman Edward J. Baker, of St. Charles, Mo., gave $1,220,000 to the Methodist Church there.

Lea M. Feagin, east Texas oilman and banker, turned over a million-dollar trust fund to the Baptist Foundation of Texas.

J. J. Lynn, Kansas City insurance executive, gave more than a million dollars to the self-realization fellowship of all religions.

An anonymous San Francisco "Chinese Christian businessman" gave a million to the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions.

A. M. Ellis, Philadelphia hosiery manufacturer, gave $100,000 for Hebrew studies at the University of Pennsylvania because of his "lifelong interest" in the Bible.

Mrs. J. P. Corcoran, of Tucson, Ariz., former wife of the late financier John J. Raskob, $615,000 to the Tucson Catholic diocese.

Rail Unions Seek Wage Guarantee

By NORMAN WALKER

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 1 (AP)—Organized labor today spread to the railroad industry its drive to win the guaranteed annual wage in 1955.

Six AFL unions comprising the railway employees department announced they will make the guaranteed annual wage their "main objective" in contract demands this year for 250,000 shop workers on the nation's railroads.

The CIO Auto Workers Union is seeking the GAW as a prime goal in auto industry bargaining this year, seeking assurance of continued pay for as long as a year for workers becoming unemployed.

President Michael Fox of the AFL railway employees department said details of the GAW plan still remained to be worked out but he pointed out that the Seaboard Airline Railroad has had a form of the GAW in effect since 1929.

Fox said the Seaboard plan does not represent what the AFL wants in the way of GAW but shows "it can be done." Under the Seaboard arrangement, he said, rail shop maintenance work is spread out on a year-around basis so most workers are assured of steady employment.

"Critical unemployment among shopmen compels us to take this protective step," Fox declared.

Fox said between 55,000 and 60,000 shop workers were laid off by the railroad industry last year and few were reemployed. He said details of the rail GAW plan would be worked out at a Chicago convention April 22 and demands served on the railroads shortly thereafter.

Apparently there is no present disposition among the nearly one million other rail industry employees to strike out for the GAW, because workers on the moving trains generally have steady jobs.

Fox said he considered it possible to schedule rail shop work so that it would not fluctuate more than 10 percent the year around.

AFL president George Meany, commenting on labor's GAW demands, told reporters he considered assured steady work and pay a "proper objective" for workers.

Individual Incomes At Record Level

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Despite the business downturn which lasted most of 1954, the public had more income and more spending money last year than ever before, the Commerce Department reported today.

In the last two months of the year, the Department said, the income of individuals—personal income—sailed above the peak rate achieved in the business boom of 1953.

Disposable, or spendable, income—which is total personal income minus personal taxes—amounted to 254 billion dollars in 1954, or about 3½ billions above the previous record in 1953, the report said. This increase in purchasing power, despite a rise in unemployment, was described as chiefly the result of the approximately 10 per cent reduction in federal income taxes which went into effect Jan. 1, 1954.

Total personal income in 1954 was computed at 286½ billion compared with the previous high of 286 billion in 1953.

The report said total personal income held up despite the business downturn, which clipped nearly 2½ billions off of wages and salaries, mainly because dividend and interest payments and unemployment benefits rose during the year, virtually balancing the drop.

Youth Center Arranges For Round Dance

THE TWIN-BOROUGH youth center will hold a round dance Saturday night.

The East Stroudsburg High School dance band will play music for dancing. Refreshments will be available. Dancing begins at 8:30; continues through 11:30.

Membership cards are required for admission to the center. Teen-agers who do not have cards will find them available at the door.

Membership at the center is made available at a "very low cost" to all teen-agers, a center official said last night. "But because we want to build the membership as much as possible and keep the Youth Center the strong organization it has been, we must abide by regulations set up in the by-laws," a spokesman added.

No charge is made for the dances held regularly by the youth center during the year and the membership card is the only fee required. Silver donations are often taken to help defray the cost of hiring an orchestra, however.

Capitalist Society Enslaves Women, Says Soviet Magazine

By STANLEY JOHNSON

MOSCOW, Feb. 3 (AP)—Women in capitalist countries have been enslaved by men and consequently married women hate their husbands. Love between men and women is only possible under communism where women have gained complete equality.

These are the twin themes of an article in the magazine Questions of Philosophy by A. G. Kharchev. He concludes that the family unit is falling apart and the birth rate declining catastrophically in capitalist countries and especially the United States. He says:

"In capitalist society a woman is supposed to stick to the kitchen, her children, church and clothes. A woman is not considered a whole human being capable of carrying on fruitful labor, political and cultural activities. This brings about an unavoidable mutual hatred between married couples. Unfaithfulness and prostitution are growing from year to year. The crisis of the family is symbolized in the citadel of modern capitalism—the United States."

In an array of statistics, there is one which Kharchev does not feature—statistics showing that the birth rate in the United States was higher in 1954 than at any time in history, that it was the highest for decades in France and is rising constantly all over the West.

A solid, truly monogamous family based on mutual love and friendship between husband and wife can be created only by doing away with the oppression and enslavement of the female half of humanity," he wrote. "This can be accomplished only by the destruction of private property and the establishment of economic relations among people freed from exploitation."

"The love which unites two Soviet human beings is connected most closely with their love for their homeland. It is inseparable from their feeling of Soviet patriotism, from giving all their strength to the great cause of communism."

The first duty of the family, the author writes, is to raise children. This emphasis on big families is growing in the Soviet Union. Its high point so far has been a speech by the Communist party general secretary, Nikita Khrushchev, urging Russians to fill those empty cradles.

RANKLY this message is addressed to any business or individual interested in making a profit for the enterprise he or she represents.

From the time that historical character, Peter Zenger defied his British politicians and established a newspaper dedicated to freedom of speech, newspapers have been the backbone of public utterances in printed form; whether it be a controversial editorial, the news of the day or the ADVERTISING MESSAGES OF BUSINESS.

And, despite the mass appeal of other media of communication which has developed from then to now, newspapers today have the greatest circulation in all history; the greatest mass readership from millions upon millions of people who spend more millions of dollars for newspapers than for any other means of communication.

U.N. Studies Recognition Of 2 Chinas

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst
Red China's refusal to send representatives to the United Nations does not necessarily close the door on further negotiations to stop the fighting around Formosa.

It does establish United Nations membership as an important goal for the Peiping regime. Heretofore the value placed on membership has not been fully revealed. Until very recently the Reds had seemed to pay little attention to relations with the non-Communist world, even with Britain which had recognized them diplomatically. The demands for membership had come mostly from Russia, and there was some speculation that she might have her tongue in her cheek.

Now the Reds say flatly that the U. N. means nothing as long as the Nationalists are members while the rulers of the mainland are not.

The United States says they will not be admitted until they stop throwing their military weight around. That means not only an end to warlike moves against Formosa, but also to the type of thing they did in Indochina and might attempt elsewhere.

It seems now that some attempt must be made to negotiate with the Reds outside the United Nations. It also seems time for a reappraisal of the United States stand about membership.

That is not to say that the policy should be changed. But if the granting of membership has become an alternative to war, then its relationship to the entire picture takes on added significance. Many would call it appeasement. An argument against it can be well sustained by the fact that no appeasement is going to change the goals of the Communists. But if it meets even temporarily the problem of today's prospect of war nobody can afford to be intransigent about it.

This column suggested in 1949 that the problem might be met by recognition of two Chinas, an idea at which the U. N. delegates of the leading nations scoffed but which, faced with an actual war threat, they are now considering. Very serious difficulties would be involved, since the United States can hardly throw over the Nationalists by ousting them from the Security Council, and Peiping would not be satisfied with anything less than a seat there. There couldn't be two Chinas on the Security Council.

The most realistic next steps which the United States can take is to join with the British in obtaining the help of Soviet Russia. Some close observers feel that Moscow is concerned over the tough line that Peiping is taking, and that her intervention against war is quite possible. Without Russian military support, the Reds almost certainly would have to fall back into a less active attitude.

Ex-Bank Teller Is Sentenced

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 3 (AP)—A former bank teller who said he embezzled funds to pay family medical bills yesterday was sentenced to a year and a day in prison.

Joseph McCort, 25, former teller at the First National Bank in Ft. Marion, Fayette County, was sentenced by Federal District Judge Wallace S. Gourley.

McCort pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzling $2,200 in bank funds between January and June of 1951.

He quit his bank job last July. In September he enrolled as a student at West Virginia University. The FBI arrested him in October.

Church Council Asked To Help Future GIs

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 3 (AP)—A churchman called on the National Lutheran Council yesterday to help prospective servicemen "develop Christian leisure patterns" before they go to overseas "sin cities."

Dr. Carl F. Yeager urged his church to come to "closer grips with the problems of our youth facing military service" and help the young people develop stability of character to withstand what he called "temptations and pitfalls" awaiting them in Japan and Germany.

The Rev. Dr. Yeager, reporting to the annual meeting of the council on the work of the Lutheran Service Commission, listed Tachikawa and Yokosuka in Japan and Munich, Kaiserslautern and Furth in Germany as "sin cities."

Earlier, the council's executive director, the Rev. Dr. Paul C. Empey, said in his annual report that the government should break up what he said are bottlenecks choking the flow of homeless refugees from Europe to this country.

He said the government was lagging in administration of the Refugee Relief Act of 1953. The act called for the admission of 200,000 refugees over a three-year period, he added, but as of the first of last month only 9,704 had landed in this country.

Widmer-Jamieson Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jamieson of The Braessie, Mount Pocono, announce the marriage of their daughter, Marion R., to Arthur A. Widmer, of 403 Colbert Street, Stroudsburg. The ceremony was solemnized by Judge Robbins in his chambers at Palm Beach, Florida, on Thursday, January 20.

Both bride and bridegroom enjoy a wide circle of friends in this area and are among the county's most devoted sponsors of musical and artistic activities. Mr. Widmer is an officer and founder of the Pocono Mountains Art Group, and secretary of the Stroudsburg Business Men's Association. He is associated with A. B. Wyckoff as advertising manager.

The former Miss Jamieson is an employee of Strickland's Mountain Inn.

During their stay in Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Widmer were guests at Del Ray Beach of Mr. Widmer's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Widmer, and an aunt, Mrs. Rose Ziegenfuss, formerly of Stroudsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Widmer will be at home to their friends after March 1 at their newly furnished residence, 505 King Street.

Garden Club Names Member To Civic Planning

Monroe County Garden Club's representative on the Civic Planning Committee for East Stroudsburg will be Mrs. Oscar J. Liljenstein, it was announced at the Garden Club board meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. David Shiffer, president, announced the appointment, Mrs. Liljenstein is immediate past president of the club.

Plans were also discussed for the February meeting when Mrs. Walter Merwin will speak on "African Violets". Members of the club were invited to the showing of colored slides by the Colored Slides Club at the Penn-Stroud Hotel on Saturday night.

Mrs. Milo Rasely was voted in as a new member.

Board members present included Mrs. Edgar Van Why, Mrs. Roy Bush, Mrs. Edward Knob, Mrs. David Shiffer, Mrs. Ray Osborn, Mrs. A. Starr Phelps, Mrs. Ralph Mook, Mrs. Walter Starnard, Mrs. Russell E. Hamblin, Mrs. Liljenstein, Mrs. A. H. Mathieson and Mrs. W. R. Erickson.

Son Is Born

Tannersville — Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son on January 24. The baby has been named Danny Harold.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Nothing is perfect. Here's the snow for the snow sports and it's so cold that instead of sport it's more of a torture session. But they were out, just the same, on sleds and toboggans and yesterday they were limping around with assorted bumps and bruises.

The hill on East Brown St. last night had its share of sledders and even more fathers serving as sort of volunteer guards and looking very cold, too. A few hours of that and they could tip them into a wheelbarrow and cart them off to a wax works.

Maybe we got cold sledding when we were young, but somehow you don't remember that part. The part you remember is the bob sled on Fifth Street hill, the horse-and-sleigh rides each grade took every winter, and the cocoa always on tap at the Sayre home.

All this memory business is just filling up space while listening to the ebb and flow of the telephone calls coming in about the big fire at Tobyhanna. There's no place so interesting to be—or so frustrating—as a newspaper office when a big story is breaking.

You catch bits and snatches and nobody has time to fill you in. You sense the excitement and you want to be there, too, and you're chained to a desk. Other news keeps on happening and you have to write it up. And nobody grabs the next morning's paper any faster than a reporter.

Talent Projects Bring Dollars For Church Group

Delaware Water Gap — Reports from the individual projects of auxiliary members were received at the meeting of the Presbyterian women, held at the home of Mrs. Francis Drake, Tuesday night. Projects mentioned were baby-sitting, greeting card sales, luncheons and dinners given, typing, baking for orders, doughnut making; and well over one-hundred dollars was turned in with six reports.

Mrs. Elam Gray, vice-president, had charge of the business meeting since illness prevented the president, Mrs. George Hauser, from attending. Substituting for Mrs. H. W. Brodhead, with the devotional service, Mrs. Clifford Hauser read the scripture and Stanley High's article "Our Prayers Could Change the World" and a "Creed for Living."

Mrs. Francis Drake, missionary chairman, reported the list of hospital needs to be supplied by the auxiliary had been received and that it will require two or three afternoons of sewing to prepare them. She read a letter written by a woman missionary in Africa.

Mrs. Edythe Glebe and Mrs. Elam Gray will be the church flower committee for February. It was voted to pay $150 on the church carpet bill.

Mrs. Herbert Baker, Mrs. Clifford Hauser and Mrs. Richard Carlton were named as kitchen committee and the auxiliary decided to set aside a portion of their funds each month for the purchase of equipment needed in the church kitchen, beginning with roasters and a heavy electric mixer. Mrs. C. Faulkenhagen donated carving knives for the kitchen.

The Siegels, Wed 50 Years On Feb. 7, Honored By Aid

Saylorsburg — Mr. and Mrs. John Siegel of Saylorsburg will observe their 50th wedding anniversary, February 7, having been married in 1905 at Nazareth in the Lutheran parsonage by Rev. L. Lazarus.

John Franklin Siegel, who is 73 years of age, was born in Ross Township in what is known as Ross Common, son of Alfred and Amanda Siegel, who had moved there from Plainfield Township.

Mrs. Siegel, the former Mary Ellen Kleintop, 69, was born in Kunkletown, daughter of Francis and Diana Kleintop. Her father, still living, is 92 years old, lives on Route 2, Easton.

When they were married, they went to housekeeping in Saylorsburg, in what was known as the Saylor house, and lived there for 42 years, having moved to their present home about eight years ago.

Mrs. Siegel clerked in the E. G. Dorshimer General Store for about 40 years, and when Mr. Dorshimer retired as postmaster, about 14 years ago, Mrs. Siegel became postmaster. He is a member of Mt. Eaton Reformed Church, having been treasurer for the past 30 years. He is also a member of the Blue Ridge Hook and Ladder and P.O.S. of A. Lodge. Mrs. Siegel is of Reformed faith, also being a member of Mt. Eaton Church. She has belonged to the Ladies Aid since it was organized, and served as its treasurer. She also belongs to the Progressive Woman's Club of Saylorsburg as well as the Auxiliary of the Fire Co.

They have two sons, both affiliated with the S. S. Kresge Co. Harold and his family live in Detroit, Michigan. He is superintendent of the fountains of the Kresge Stores. Roy and his family live in Chicago. He is superintendent of all the stores in that district.

They have six grandchildren. Since Mr. and Mrs. John Siegel did not plan to have open-house for their 50th wedding anniversary, the Ladies Aid decided to surprise them on their day of quilting, by serving a dinner at noon. Word traveled fast, and a chicken and waffle dinner with all the trimmings was served Wednesday noon at the Fire Hall in Saylorsburg, to the following people:

Guests, Mr. and Mrs. Siegel; Rev. and Mrs. Adan Bohner, Rev. John Bergstesser, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shale, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schick, Eugene Mackes, Mrs. George Haney, Mrs. Rosa Butts, Mrs. Emma Altomose, Mrs. Bessie Alexander, Mrs. Rose Gower, Mrs. Russell Kresge, Mrs. Florence Warner, Mrs. Oscar Bonser, Mrs. Grant Kpovles, Mrs. John Gower, Mrs. P. W. Meisell, Mrs. Anna Serfas, Mrs. Harold Altomose, Mrs. Claude Eckley, Mrs. Norman Greenamoyer, Mrs. Anetta VanBuskirk, Mrs. Mathew Kresge, Mrs. Ralph VanBuskirk, Mrs. Sarah Dorshimer, Mrs. Russell Bopst, Mrs. John Kostenbader, Mrs. William Faulstick, Mrs. Frank Kresge, Mrs. Ralph Bond, Nina Bonser and Bradley Hildbrandt.

With all the excitement lots of quilting was done, one quilt being entirely completed, and progress made on two. Platters of food which were left over were sent to shut-ins, making them happy also. The Siegels were presented with a yellow woolen blanket as a remembrance from the Ladies Aid.

Sharon Mills Honored On 7th Birthday

Brookheads — Sharon Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Mills of Brookheads, observed her seventh birthday on Sunday with a party given at her parents' home. The room was decorated with colored balloons and pink and white streamers. A large birthday cake centered the table.

A supper was served to the following: Mellanie Fenner, Tracie Fenner, Gladys Mosteller, Johnny Martucci, Billy Martucci and Johnny Mills, also Mrs. Charles Koehler and Mrs. Weston Fenner Jr.

Those unable to attend due to illness were Linda Shuppi, Jackie Kern, Linda Dorshimer, Susan Wagner, Diane Koehler, Donald Koehler and Billy Kresge.

Other callers were Miss Ella Mills, Charles Koehler and Mrs. William Kresge. Sharon received a number of gifts from her friends.

RILEY

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

EAST STROUDSBURG High School's basketball team wrote its own chapter in that from rags to riches story that has been making the rounds these many years when it upended Wilson Borough on Tuesday, 63-61. The Cavaliers had been kicked around pretty hard in the first half of the current Lehigh-Northampton League flag race and opened the second half by bowing to Parkland. Just when the picture looked darkest, the Cavaliers rallied their forces and defeated the defending title holder.

When the Cavaliers take the court against Copley tonight, they will not only be facing one of the toughest clubs in the Lehigh-Northampton League, but will also be taking part in a game that could very easily decide the second half championship. It is quite possible that the second half title holder will lose at least one of the two games. If the Cavaliers pass Copley they will find themselves in business as far as the championship is concerned.

It has been this reporter's contention that East Stroudsburg has a good basketball team this season, one that is much better than its current record would indicate. It certainly was great to see the charges of Coach Dick Forster rebound against Wilson, just when everyone was counting the N. Courtland St. eagles out of the picture. In defeating Wilson East Stroudsburg demonstrated the same two qualities that made it look so good early in the campaign, before falling into its losing rut.

The Cavaliers finished strong in the last minutes to down Wilson and the Eastburg quintet also demonstrated a strong offense which featured a well divided scoring punch. The N. Courtland St. quintet emphasized good teamwork, which in turn resulted in its biggest victory of the current campaign. Instead of being on the outside looking in, the Cavaliers are now very much on the inside and anxious to take a big step forward against Copley tonight.

In a previous meeting with Copley East Stroudsburg scored 85 points, enough to win two high school games, but still finished on the short end of the score when Copley came up with 91 counters. The Cavaliers know they can score almost at will against Copley. The big problem now is to stop Copley from producing anything resembling 91 points this time. The fact that the game is being played on the East Stroudsburg court wipes out any sort of advantage Copley may think it has after that first "jash."

East Stroudsburg is currently in the midst of the rough section of its schedule, but it often takes an obstacle or two to bring out the best in a team. During the first half the Cavaliers had almost a "tailor made" slate of games, but failed to impress even mildly. But now that the schedule favors the opposition, except in a few cases like tonight, the Cavaliers may be prodded into giving that little something extra that separates the good quintets from the also-rans.

It's been a long time since East Stroudsburg has taken the measure of Copley in basketball—but this could be the night. The Cavaliers appear to be at the peak of their game, while Copley may find it tough to recover from two straight heart breaking defeats at the hands of Fountain Hill. Although it isn't probable that another 91-85 contest is in the offering, both teams are much more proficient at offense than defense.

Bill Pensyl and Bob "Red" Kupiszewski chipped in with a pair of payoff foul shots in the last three minutes to turn the tide of battle. Another display of teamwork to night could do big things for the Fortermen at this point in the schedule.

While East Stroudsburg realizes that it has a tough game against Copley, Stroudsburg may find itself in a different position. If the Mountaineers think Whitehall is going to be a soft touch tonight they have another thought coming. Stroudsburg is currently riding the crest of a three-game winning streak and is ripe for a big upset. The fact that Whitehall lost to Lehighton on Tuesday doesn't mean a thing, as the Zephyrs always play good hall on the Stroudsburg boards. This same Whitehall club led Stroudsburg by a 19-7 count in the first half before the Mountaineers rallied to win. Be careful!

Lake Harmony Takes Over Lead In Mountains League

Poconos Falter In Final Period

POCONO PINES — Lake Harmony moved into first place in the Pocono Mountains Basketball League last night by scoring a 62-51 verdict over the Stroudsburg Poconos in the first half of a doubleheader here on the Tobyhanna Township High School court.

The win was number eight in 10 outings for Lake Harmony, while the Poconos now own a mark of seven victories and two reversals. Play raged back and forth through the first three periods before Lake Harmony put the game on ice with a 29-16 bulge in the scoring during the last 10 minutes of play.

Stroudsburg lost both Henry "Hank" Stetler and Paul "Muff" Warnick on fouls in the final round and Lake Harmony took advantage of their absence to run up the victory margin.

Lake Harmony led 12-10 at the end of the first period and 20-19 at the halfway mark, after Stroudsburg had the better of a dull second round, 9-8.

Stroudsburg jumped into a 38-33 advantage after three-quarters, but couldn't stand the pace in the home stretch. The Poconos held a 19-13 scoring edge in the third round.

Lake Harmony held a 23-21 advantage in field goals and made good on 16 of 33 shots from the floor. The Poconos converted 12 of 21 charity tosses.

Ronnie Esrang and Frank Broynok led the Lake Harmony attack with 18 points each, while Stetler and Harvey "Hotsey" Bergman paced the losing offense with 18 and 15 markers respectively.

Littler Leads Phoenix Open

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 3 (AP) — Imperturbable Gene Littler of San Diego, Calif., on the pro golfing trail for only a year, calmly sank birdie putts of seven and eight feet on the final two holes today to take the first round lead in the $15,000 Phoenix Open golf tournament with a 66, four under par.

Three players, Jack Fleck, Davey Porter, Iowa; Walter Burkemo, Franklin, Mich.; and Johnny Palmer, Charlotte, N. C., had finished in a deadlock at 67 when Littler came in.

On the 18th Littler calmly lined up his eight-foot putt and knocked it in.

With the start of the tournament held up an hour this morning because of frost on the greens of the Arizona County Club course, play was called tonight before three three-holes could finish.

Littler and the three golfers following credited putting for their low scores. Gene needed only 30 for the round over the 6,684-yard, par 34-36-70 layout.

Palmer yesterday shot the first hole-in-one of his career.

At 68 came Jimmy Clark, Laguna Beach, Calif., with 10 bunched one stroke back.

In the 69 bracket were Mike Souchak, Durham, N. C.; Leo Biagetti, Sandusky, Ohio; Arnold Palmer, Dallas, Tex.; Ed Oliver, Lemont, Ill.; Peter Thomson, Melbourne, Australia; Lou Warlick, Milwaukee, Wis.; Cary Middlecoff, Klamath Lake, N. Y.; Billy Maxwell, Odessa, Tex.; Al Bessolink, Grossinger, N. Y.; and Tony Holguin, Middletown, Ill.

Zephyrs Invade Stroudsburg

STROUDSBURG High will attempt to retain its first place deadlock in the second half of the Lehigh Valley League tonight when the Mountaineers battle Whitehall's victory starved Zephyrs. The basketball contest will be played on the Stroudsburg court.

The Mountaineers surprised Catasauqua, 61-60, on Tuesday night and moved into a four-way tie for first place, Coach John Kupice and company are anxious to maintain that position in tonight's contest.

But Whitehall will be in a revengeful frame of mind when it invades the W. Main St. gymnasium. Stroudsburg took the measure of Whitehall, 63-55, in a first half clash on the latter's court.

The Zephyrs are also smarting from a setback at the hands of Lehighton on Tuesday and would be filled by either Wallie Adelmann or Doug Shook, who is recovered from a recent illness. Due to play in the Caty game and fine showings in recent practice sessions, the guard section is up for grabs between five players. The quartet consists of Tom Metzgar, Dick Hintze, Bob Metzgar, Don Deibler and Francis "Sonny" Diebler.

The junior varsity engagement is on the books for 6-45 p. m. and the varsity clash at approximately 8 p. m.

Other games in the Lehigh Valley League tonight will send Slatington to Lehighton, Emmaus to Palmyerton and Northampton to Catasauqua.

Following tonight's tussle the Mountaineers return to action next Tuesday, on the W. Main St. court, with Slatington providing the opposition. Northampton appears on the same floor next Friday.

Former American League Ump Levels Charge At Harridge

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Feb. 3 (AP) — Jim Duffy, former American League umpire, retired from baseball today, charging he was barred from the American League by President Will Harridge because of "pressure from the Boston Red Sox and the Chicago White Sox."

Duffy, who makes his home here between seasons, said "I feel that Harridge, who is personally a very fine gentleman, found it easier to dump me than to offend any club owners whom he must satisfy."

The 32-year-old umpire, who worked in the International League last year after three seasons in the American, declined to identify the persons who he said brought "pressure." Nor would he say why he thought the clubs wanted him out.

"I am amazed at Mr. Duffy's suggestion," was the reaction of Red Sox General Manager Joe Cronin. "Neither I nor any other member of the Red Sox organization have discussed the umpiring of Mr. Duffy with Mr. Harridge or anyone else."

In Chicago Frank Lane, general manager of the White Sox, said "The whole story is ridiculous. We had no knowledge that Mr. Duffy was to be sent to the International League until the American League took the action."

In Chicago, Harridge said in a statement: "Ordinarily I would not care to enter into any controversy with Jim Duffy but after reading his press statement I am forced to say he is a bit confused as to why he was not re-employed by the American League."

"He was a member of our umpire staff through 1951, 1952 and 1953. Because we felt he did not measure up to the standards of the American League he was optioned out to the International League for the season of 1954, and was guaranteed by the American League a salary that season equal to what he received as a member of our staff. We did not exercise his option because of the rapid development of our staff through the addition of three new and able young umpires in 1954, all of whom we are retaining for 1955. . . ."

Pharmacy Wins Over Gray's Cagers

POCONO PINES — Williams' Pharmacy moved into third place in the Pocono Mountains Basketball League last night by defeating Gray's Chevrolet in the second half of a doubleheader, 74-72. The contest was played on the Tobyhanna Township High School court.

The Pharmacy contingent jumped into an early lead and was never headed, although the contest raged nip-and-tuck right up to the final whistle.

At one time in the fading seconds of the half game Gray's quintet pulled to within one point of the Pharmacy, 72-71, but the visiting crew just couldn't quite make the grade.

The Pharmacy five went out in front at the end of the first period, 22-19, and held a 46-35 bulge at the halfway mark after running up a 24-16 advantage in the second stanza.

Gray's cagers began their uphill fight in the third period by holding an 18-11 edge and continued through the fourth round, with a 19-17 bulge, but the advantage wasn't quite enough to turn the tide of battle.

It was the seventh win in 11 outings for the Pharmacy contingent and matches perfectly with the record now being displayed by Gray's club.

Williams' team held a 32-31 advantage in field goals and made good on 10 of 19 foul shots. The Chevrolet contingent converted 10 of 15 charity tosses.

Andy Secor and Charley Heiney led the winning attack with 22 and 17 markers, while Al Bartholomay and Ray Steele were tops for Gray's with 22 and 21 tallies respectively.

Dinermen Spurt In Second Half To Sink West End, 99-76

BRODHEADSVILLE — Johnson's Diner used a strong second half to carry it to victory in a Pocono Mountains Basketball League game with West End last night, 99-76. The game was played here on the Chestnuthill High School court.

Johnson's Diner, currently holding down sixth place in the standings, had to rally in the second half after trailing the winless West End contingent at the halfway mark.

The visiting Dinermen led 22-15 at the end of the first period, but West End rallied for 33 points in the second round, while the Dinermen could account for only 23. West End led by a 48-45 count going into the third period.

Johnson's crew, led by Clair Bloss and Sharon Peechotka, went on to clinch victory by rolling up a 24-16 edge in the third quarter and a one-sided 30-12 advantage during the final 10 minutes of play.

The winning quintet ran up 42 field goals as compared to 31 for West End. The Dinermen made good on 15 of 23 foul shots, while West End found the range on 14 of 28 charity tosses.

Henry "Hank" Kreechel, the circuit's leading scorer, led in point production once again with 36 markers. The total came on 13 field goals and 10 conversions from the foul line.

Bloss and Peechotka were high for the Dinermen with 24 and 22 tallies respectively.

Eagles Sign Fullback

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3 (AP) — Fullback Dick Bilecki of the University of Maryland, number one draft choice of the Philadelphia Eagles, today signed a 1955 contract with the National Football League team.

Philadelphia's coach, Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf, in 1947, the Wildcats won only 1 of their last 12 Big Ten games. Northwestern defeated Illinois 28-26 in the finale of the 1952 season and then didn't win again in conference play until last fall's win against Illinois, 20-7.

Athletic Director Ted Paysor said he was surprised by Voigts' resignation and would have to begin a search for a successor.

It was known, however, the "N" Club is anxious to have Voigts' job presented to Graham, Northwestern product who became a brilliant pro star quarterback for the Cleveland Browns.

Graham announced his retirement as a player after a sensational performance in guiding the Browns to a National Football League title over the Detroit Lions last December.

Houtteman In Fold

CLEVELAND, Feb. 3 (AP) — Right-hander Art Houtteman, who pitched 15 victories against seven defeats last year, signed his third contract with the Cleveland Indians for about $18,000.

East Stroudsburg Plays Host To Coplay

Eastburg Junior High Earns Nod

EAST Stroudsburg Junior High School rolled to its fourth straight favorable decision of the current basketball season yesterday with a 31-24 verdict over Lehighton, on the winning contingent's home court.

The Cavaliers used a fast start as their stepping stone to victory and then withstood a fast period uprising by the visiting Indians from Lehighton.

East Stroudsburg has now defeated Lehighton twice and Stroudsburg and Pen Argyl on one occasion each. The charges of Coach Mike Evans launched the campaign by falling before Pocomo, on the latter's home boards.

The Cavaliers jumped off to a 7-2 advance in the first period yesterday and then stretched their lead to 13-6 at the halfway mark.

East Stroudsburg held the upper hand in the third round, 7-6, and a 12-11 Lehighton advantage in the last six minutes of action failed to turn the tide of battle.

Evans Reese led the winning attack with 11 points, seven coming on foul shots, while Irvin Smith was next in line with seven tallies. Art Semmel was the big scorer for Lehighton with 11 markers.

The Cavaliers return to action on Wednesday, February 16, when they play at Pen Argyl.

Coach Likes Thick Shoes

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (AP)—College basketball bigwigs at first grined, then winced and finally frowned today at the game's newest gimmick—elevator shoes.

"The next thing you know they'll be putting springs on shoes," wryly commented Bruce Drake, University of Oklahoma coach who heads the rules committee.

"When the seven-foot players came in we jokingly said they'd soon be equipping boys with stilts," said Coach Howard Hobson of Yale. "We didn't think they'd take us seriously."

"It's against the spirit of the rules," added Manhattan's Ken Norton, a rules committee member.

The elevator shoes were introduced in a game last night by Sax Elliott, research-minded coach of Los Angeles State College who is renowned for other departures from the routine.

Saxton put shoes with six-inch rubber soles on one of his players, Glen Abney, making a seven-footer of a boy of no exceptional height.

Abney clumped around under the goal for about five minutes. He didn't make a basket or do any rebounding, and Los Angeles State lost to Utah, 7-38. But Elliott had his fun and proved his point, if any.

"There's no rule against these shoes," said Drake. "Basketball always will be a big man's game and I guess it's one way to get more height. But if the thing gets going and the shoe manufacturers start up with the shoes it'll probably take some legislation."

Bangor Quintet Slated For Action On Pen Argyl Court

BANGOR—Bangor High will be shooting for its initial victory in the second half of the Lehigh-Northampton Basketball League tonight when the Slaters tangle with arch rival Pen Argyl, on the latter's home court.

Junior varsity activity is listed for 6:30 p. m. and the varsity tussle will get under way at approximately 8 p. m.

Bangor won the first meeting of the two teams this season. Pen Argyl failed to win in the first half of the campaign and lost its opening contest in the second half of the current season.

Coach John Heard's Bangor club is expected to answer the starting whistle with Art "Bucky" Parsons and Jim Freeman at the forward spots and Don Keat at center. The starting guards will be Wayne Pysker and Duane Miller.

Monroe County League Lists Only One Basketball Tussle

ONLY ONE MONROE County League basketball game is on the agenda tonight, but it will have a direct bearing on the final standings of the six clubs in the circuit.

Business has forced postponement of two games, both of which have been rescheduled for Tuesday, February 22.

One of the scheduled contests would have sent second place Barrett against Tollyhanna Township High, on the latter's home court.

Barrett is currently sporting a record of seven wins and three defeats, while TTHS features one victory and nine setbacks.

The second postponement involves Chestnut Hill and Pocomo. Chestnut Hill, currently leading the league with eight wins and two defeats, was to have played at Tannerville, but Pocomo High has been closed by illness until Monday.

Barrett had over 100 students absent yesterday because of illness and TTHS 33 for the same reason.

The only game scheduled to be played will feature Coolbaugh, tied for second place with Barrett, against Polk, at Kresgeville. Coolbaugh will risk a 7-3 mark against Polk, one of the three teams to sidetrack the Coolbaugh forces of Coach Don Wismer this season.

Polk at the present time has a record of three wins and seven setbacks.

Tonight's only junior varsity contest will begin at 7:15 p. m., while the varsity engagement is listed for approximately 8:30 p. m. Action is listed for 8 p. m.

Haddix Likes Second Offer

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 3 (AP)—Left-hander Harvey Haddix, St. Louis Cardinal pitching mainstay who balked at his original contract offer this year, signed with the club today at "more than $20,000."

Haddix, who flew here from his father's farm near South Vienna, Ohio, disclosed last week he had rejected an offer of the same pay he received last season, believed to be from $16,000 to $18,000.

Earlier today the club announced receipt of the signed contract of first baseman Tom Alston and pitchers Gordon Jones and Herb Moford.

Alleys three and four—Regina Hotel vs. Worthington Mower.

Alleys five and six—Tru-Matic vs. Cole's Drug Store.

with undefeated Tony DeMarco a week from today.

Moses Ward, another highly regarded ring figure, is currently resting at Harry's Farm before opening a training session.

Harry Freedman, owner of Harry's Farm, announced yesterday that Nino Valdes, number one heavyweight contender, is expected to visit the camp over the weekend.

No admission will be charged for the weekend boxing sessions.

Kentucky Star Quits Cage Ranks

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 3 (AP)—A first-string guard on the University of Kentucky's No. 1-ranked basketball team, who quit after criticizing coach Adolph Rupp's tactics, denied today he had asked reinstatement.

Coach John Heard's Bangor club is expected to answer the starting whistle with Art "Bucky" Parsons and Jim Freeman at the forward spots and Don Keat at center. The starting guards will be Wayne Pysker and Duane Miller.

Linville Puckett, 6-foot junior, took exception to a Rupp statement that Puckett had asked to be reinstated and had been turned down.

Rupp said he told Puckett the situation had gone too far to take him back.

"I didn't ask him to put me back on the team," said Puckett. "I just told him I didn't want to leave the impression that I quit because I was mad at him."

Puckett gave his version of a meeting with Rupp as he packed preparatory to moving from the basketball dormitory on the university campus. He said he didn't know where he was going.

"I broke training, but I'm not the only one," he said the 21-year-old player. He refused to elaborate.

When he announced his resignation last night, Puckett was quoted as saying he was leaving because basketball at Kentucky "isn't regarded as a game but as a matter of life or death with resemblance of one going to war."

Rupp, meanwhile, pronounced squad morale "very excellent" for tonight's game with Florida.

Puckett, of Winchester, Ky., missed practice yesterday after a squad meeting at which Rupp said training rules were re-stated.

Asked today about the statement attributed to him, he replied "I'd just rather forget the whole thing for a while."

A source close to Kentucky's athletic affairs said the player had denied statement attributed to him.

Asked to comment on Puckett's statement, Rupp said "I've made my statement and I'll stand on it. As far as I'm concerned it's all over."

Balls May Change Play

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 3 (AP)—Don't blame a hitter if he gets a three-bagger instead of a home run—the difference might be in the ball he tried to slug out of the park.

That is the view of Arthur (Dymie) Mansfield, University of Wisconsin baseball coach, and Robert Francis, professor of physical education at Wisconsin, who recently completed a two-year scientific study on official major league baseballs.

The study was made for the American Association of College Baseball Coaches. Mansfield and Francis reported their findings today.

"Our findings show there should be standardized specifications for baseballs designated as official," they pointed out.

"Only two sizes exist now. These apply to size and weight, and a large percentage of the balls we tested do not even meet these requirements. There have been no rule changes regarding official ball specifications since 1872."

For their experiments, the men exchanged baseballs supplied by manufacturers for fresh stock at various stores, then compared and tested the balls seven different ways.

Thirty-nine of 86 baseballs were found too large, and one too small. Of 104 balls weighed, 25 were either too light or too heavy.

Dodgers Sign Pair

BROOKLYN, Feb. 3 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers today received the contracts of pitcher Pete Wojciek and catcher Herb Olson and now have 36 of the 42 players on their roster signed up for 1955.

Two players are on the service list.

Cavaliers Seek Second Major Win

EAST Stroudsburg High's basketball squad is hopeful of moving into a pennant-contending position in the Lehigh-Northampton Basketball League tonight, but a powerful Coplay five will be on hand to supply the opposition on the N. Courtland St. court.

The Cavaliers moved into the championship picture on Tuesday night when they took the measure of a strong Wilson Borough quintet, on the latter's home court, 63-61.

East Stroudsburg opened the second half of the current campaign by bowing to Parkland and would like nothing better than to land its second win of the second half tonight.

Coplay tied Fountain Hill for first place in the opening half of the season, but fell before the Hillers in a special playoff. Coplay will also bring a one-and-one record to town tonight, having dropped a 59-57 thriller to Fountain Hill in a regularly scheduled tussle on Tuesday.

East Stroudsburg, fresh from its most important victory of the current campaign, will be making its first home appearance of the second half race.

Coach Dick Forster is expected to stick with the same starting lineup that defeated Wilson. This means that Harry Lambert and Howard Smith will handle the forward duties; Bill Penzell, center, and Bob "Red" Kapuscinski and Dick Gray operate at the guard posts.

Bill Sommers, who missed the Wilson game because of illness, is expected to see action tonight, as are Jim Kimler and Danny Marvin.

The junior varsity clash between the two schools is set for 6:30 p.m. and the main event for 8 p.m.

Other Lehigh-Northampton League games tonight will pit Bangor against Pen Argyl, Nazareth against Parkland and Hellertown with Tannerville.

East Stroudsburg returns to action next Tuesday when the Cavaliers play a non-league game with Phillipsburg, on the Phillipsburg hardwood.

Giants Looking For Pitcher

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (AP)—Some-time next week, Carl Hubbell will head for Florida and begin looking for a real good right-handed pitcher.

Any major league baseball club could use one of those, naturally. But Hubbell, searching on behalf of New York's World Champion Giants, has a very special object in mind. He wants a strong, skilled young man who can take Sal Maglie's place a few years from now.

Hubbell, one of the all-time great pitchers, took time out today to discuss the changing problems of a baseball farm director. That has been Hub's job since 1944. He was the "architect" of a minor league system that developed a large part of the 1954 champion squad, and he has to go on producing replacements.

"Right now we're concentrating on pitching," Carl explained. "Of course, if we see any real good prospects at any position, we try to get them. But Sal isn't young, you know, and in a few years we'll need a real good right-hander. It just happens that our best prospects, the ones that are anywhere near to making the Giants, are all left-handers."

U.S. Names Skating Stars

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 3 (AP)—Sprinters McDermott and Ken Henry today were chosen to represent the United States in the world speed skating championships at Moscow, Feb. 18-19.

American Skating Union officials held out the hope that additional funds would permit sending of a third man, Johnny Wierke of Minneapolis.

Dick Sherman, of Jamestown, N.Y., former president of the skating union, will accompany the team to Moscow as manager.

Zivic Held For Jury

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 3 (AP)—Former world welterweight boxing champion Fritz Zivic was held under $500 bond today for grand jury action after his arrest on charges of driving during suspension of his operator's license.

Greene-Dreher Battles Moscow

NEWFOUNDLAND — Greene-Dreher-Sterling High hits the road for a Wayne County Conference basketball game tonight as the Stags oppose a tough Moscow contingent on the latter's home court. Moscow is considered by many as one of the teams to beat for the championship this season.

Other conference games on the agenda tonight will send Pleasant

Furman On Way To College Scoring Record

FURMAN IS ON ITS way to becoming the first "100-points-a-game" team in major college basketball history.

With half the season gone, the South Carolinians are skipping along at a 100.7 point average through the first 15 games, including play through last Saturday.

The National Collegiate Athletic Bureau, which keeps close check on such things, pointed up this fact today in announcing that Furman still is far ahead in the basketball scoring race.

Furman actually is shooting at its own record. With Frank Selvy leading the attack, the Dixie institution became the first team to average 90 points a game with a mark of 90.2 in 1952-53.

Last season Selvy helped raise this scoring pace to 91.7.

Connecticut is second in the scoring race with a 92.4 average followed by Virginia with 90 even and Cincinnati with 88.7.

On the defensive side, San Francisco is still the country's best, holding the opposition to an average of 49.7 points a game.

Niagara, with only one regular measuring over six-feet-three, and Kentucky, with three starters over six-feet-six, are the rebounding leaders.

Niagara has captured 62.1 per cent of the available rebounds and the Wildcats have grabbed 61.3 per cent.

Penn State Thrives On Overtime

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Feb. 3 (AP)—Penn State's 1954-55 basketball team, already the highest scoring in school history, today owns a new title—overtime champ.

Last night's overtime Lion victory over West Virginia at Morgantown, W. Va., was the third time this season a game ended tied in regulation time. No other Penn State team has ever played as many overtime contests in the school's 56-year case history.

And to top everything, the three extra-long games have come in succession and Penn State has won all three on the road.

The current quintet, although it may not repeat last season's success, made its first showing early in the campaign. The 110 points scored against Colgate was the highest total in school history—and the first 100 plus score ever registered by the Nittany Lions. They have since tallied 106 against Rutgers and 107 against Syracuse.

Last night's 88-86 triumph was made possible by Ron Weidenhamer's tying basket with 40 seconds remaining in regulation time. Saturday at Philadelphia Penn State led all the way before being tied by Temple. Then the Lions ran off with an 84-80 decision.

In the game before that, against Lehigh at Bethlehem the Nittany Lions came from behind to win 81-75 in two overtime periods. The club started off a five game road trip by losing to Carnegie Tech and Pitt before going into the overtime series.

With a record of 12 wins in 17 games, Coach John Egli, in his first season, said, "When we were beaten in those first two road games I thought we were licked for the season. But these kids found themselves and now it will take a real good team to beat us."

Leading the scoring is Jesse Arnette, a two-sport star who needs 125 points in the remaining eight games to become the school's first player to make 2,000 points. Two other football players are on the starting five, end Bob Rohland and quarterback Bobby Hoffman.

How long will the overtime spree last? No one knows but the schedule has Lehigh and West Virginia as State's next two opponents, both at home.

Ennis Among Highest Paid

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3 (AP)—Outfielder Del Ennis signed his 1955 contract with the Philadelphia Phillies today for an undisclosed salary that General Manager Roy Hamey said makes Ennis one of the higher paid players in the National League.

Neither Ennis nor Hamey would even hint at the big outfielder's salary although it is believed he'll receive about $20,000. Ennis expressed satisfaction with the deal and said he hoped to better his 261 batting average of 1954.

Pitchers Bob Miller and Tommy Qualters also returned signed contracts, Hamey said.

Mayo Smith, the Phillies new manager, said that Pitching Coach Whitlow Wyatt will coach at first base once the season starts, with the veteran Wally Moses directing traffic at third. Coach Benny Bengough will handle the bullpen chores. Smith prefers to do his bossing from the bench.

Tigers Refuse Big Offer

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (AP)—General Manager Frank Lane of the Chicago White Sox said today the Detroit Tigers refused his $100,000 offer for catcher-outfielder J. W. Porter, once a White Sox bonus player.

Porter was signed by the Sox in 1950 for a reported $65,000 but went to the St. Louis Browns in 1952 in a deal for outfielder Jim Rivera. The Browns traded Porter to Detroit and he is due to return to the Tigers this month after military service.

"I made the offer to Spike Briggs (Tiger owner) after the baseball writers' dinner in New York last Sunday, but he turned it down," said Lane.

Meter Revenue Continues To Show Gain

ONCE AGAIN parking meter revenues in Stroudsburg started off a new year with a monthly gain over the same period a year ago.

Total revenues for January, according to figures compiled by Harold E. Snyder, borough secretary, were $2,911.14, compared with $2,805.37 a year ago.

The 12-month period revenues ending with this past January totaled $45,431.87, compared with $35,903.13 for the preceding 12-month period.

Chief of Police James F. McConnell reported $614 in fines were assessed and collected during January.

Bills on the regular borough account approved for payment by council amounted to $10,953.48. Those on the sewer account totaled $1,184.74.

Hess Quits C. Of C. In Allentown

ALLENTOWN, Feb. 3 (P)—Max Hess, head of Hess Bros. retail store in Allentown, yesterday announced his resignation from the Chamber of Commerce.

Hess urged businessmen to form small groups in their communities which he said can be devoted to problems that are common to all the members.

"It has been simply wishful thinking on the part of Chambers of Commerce to attempt to coordinate the needs and services of small stores and large stores, often located in an entirely different section, in the matter of hours, promotions, services and other problems," Hess said.

Winfield Clearwater, secretary of the Allentown chamber, declined comment.

Hess said "The compromises which have been adopted by Chambers of Commerce in this attempt have actually rendered a disservice to more businesses than were helped. At the same time, industrial problems vary widely and again a single governing body cannot do the job properly."

Hess emphasized he did not resign from the local chamber in criticism of its activities, "but rather to focus public attention on the inevitable results of growth. There comes a time when a city like Allentown becomes so thriving, so many-sided in its industrial endeavors that no single group of men—not even a Chamber of Commerce—can adequately and effectively be the voice of every local business."

Recommendation Made

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (P)—Informed administration and private sources said today President Eisenhower has on his desk a transportation policy report recommending relaxed regulation of railroads and less taxpayer subsidy of other main transportation systems.
